THE CABOT CREOSOTE SHINGLE STAINS

These stains produce that soft, artistic coloring effect so well adapted to houses of modern style of architecture on which shingles are largely used. It may be of interest to know that Mr A B Emerson of Boston, who is prominent among those in architects for the beauty of his sensible and suitable workwork is specifying these stains on all his work They give effects that can be got in no other way and blend harmoniously with the landscape, while they are durable and preserve the wood, costing only half the price of paint and oil. SCENES OF GRIEF AND DESPAIR

A Large Force of Men at Work Repairing the Railroads—An Alleged Miracle Reported in a Catholic Church.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 3.—Developments every hour makes it more and more apparent that the exact number of lives lost in the Johnstown horror will never be known All of the estimates that have been made up to this time have been conservative, and when all is known 5000 will doubtless be found to be two small Over 1500 bodies have been found since sunrise to-day, and the most skeptical concede that the remains of thousands more rest beneath the debris above Johnstown bridge.

The population of Johnstown and the surrounding towns in that portion of the valley affected by the flood is, or was, from 60 000 to 55 000

The associated press reporters to-day interviewed numerous leading citizens of Johnstown who survived the flood, and their consensus of opinion was that fully 30 per cent of the residents of Johnstown and Cambria City have been victims of the combined disasters of fire and water If this be true the total loss of life in the entire valley cannot be less than 7000 or 8000 or possibly much greater

Of the thousands who were devoured by the flames, and whose ashes rest beneath the smoking debris about Johnstown bridge, no definite information can ever be obtained As little will be learned of the hundreds that sank beneath the current and were borne swiftly down the Conemaugh only to be deposited on the banks and drifts ood of the raging river

Probably one third of the bodies will never be recovered and it will take many weeks to enable even a close estimate to be made of the number of lives that were snuffed out in that brief hour That this estimate can never be accurate is understood when it is remembered that in many instances whole families and their relatives were torn away and found a common grave beneath the wild waste of waters. The total destruction of the city leaves no data to even demonstrate that those unfortunates ever lived

All indications point to the fact that the death list will reach over five thousand and in my opinion it will reach eight thousand

Adjutant-General Hastings to night said that at present there were said to b two thousand recovered bodies.

One of the great difficulties experienced in getting a correct list is the great number of morgues. There is no central bureau of information, and to communicate with the different houses is the work of hours. The journey from the Pennsylvania Railway morgue to the one of the Fourth ward school house in Johnstown occupies at least one hour This renders it impossible to reach all of them in town in one day, particularly as some of the morgues are situated at points inaccessible from Johnstown

BODIES RECOVERED.

The Record at Various Places up to Six O'clock P. M.

At 6 o clock this evening the thirtieth body had been received at the Cambria City depository for corpses

At Millville was the body of a girl 15 years old making the forty-sixth corpse received there Angry marks on one of her wrists looked as if her bracelet had been torn from her arm

Seventy bodies have been received at the Pennsylvania railroad station Those identified are as follows Schechermer Mrs D J Williams Fanny Prosser, Mrs L M Parsons John Meyers, James Jone Thomas Thoburn Mrs L Co mother of County Superintendent of Scho ls Leach Mrs Lucy Thurmon David Shirley Mrs Margaret Frank Mrs Molly Burkhard Miss Molly Jones Frank Davis Miss Alice Keenan Chris Hornung of Butler Miss Maggie Stoup Mrs. Martin Lucas Williams Dr R F Wilson Cathe ine Myers the family of Patrick Fagan (husband Wife and two grown daughters) John Murphy Charles Ream Mary Callahan Cyrus Iliff, Samuel Blough, Clarissa Murry, John Buchanan, superintendent of the Cambria Iron Works warehouse Mrs. John W James Bessie Prosser, — Mayfield Mrs Mary Downey Phil Geddes William H Overdorf O R. At the Fourth ward school house a great number of bodies are being prepared for interment Yesterday 200 more were deposited and to-day as many more received Mrs Hon Elhosend and children Charles A Mark all Mrs S T Dr. France, a son of Dr Poland and daughter of Dr Poland Mrs Katzenstein a son of Mrs Kitzenstein Mr Lang a butcher, Moses Strauss Frank Wood Sadie Gagehy, Mrs Ella Dayton Miss Mary Feyden, a porter (colored, supposed to be William Henry) Jacob Williams Mrs Jacob Williams Mrs A W Jones Powell Lowells two sons of George H Baldwin William Dayton, Mrs O Connell and Mrs Buckley John O Richards Patrick Kelly Charles W Butler Assistant Treasurer Tom Mrs S M Jones Jessie Hamilton F W McAfee Miss Harrigan James Martin William L Davis Samuel E Eldridge Mrs Laura Hartley Mrs R O Gunner (whose body was found but a number) Elmer Brinkley, Mr A Little of Pittsburg Charles H Wilson, a woman resembling Miss Lila Taylor Addie Williams John Burns, a brakeman of the Cambria Iron Company, Mrs S Jennie Wells John Andrews, Frank H Harris, Arthur Smith, Carrie S. Barbour, George Randolph Frank Diamond Annie Pulcon, a lady supposed to be Mrs Gen James G Cox, Mrs James I Frombleser William Hurod James J Murphy, Bessie Murphy, M L. Davis John Sturma Mary Davis Peter Brown Minnie Linton Charles Bitzharris Chas Rohnke, Thomas Matthews, Bertha Hoffman, Mrs B F Hoffman, W Lawrence Hoffman Fred Hoffman, Marion Hoffman, Joe Hoffman, Dr W C Mean, A O Little, Laura Hamilton, Mrs. John D Harnick, Conrad Weiss and August Derris.

AT KERNVILLE.

The dead at Kernville are: Three children of M. Shields, Mrs. Walter Bells, Mrs. John Hewett, Mrs. Rean, Mrs W Wesleystaft, Mrs. Jacob Swank, Luther Bowman's child, Jessie Hamilton, Mrs. W L. Delaney, Otto Cooper Annie Reese, Windsor Reese, Ella White, Maggie White, Charles Musser Mrs. Edward Brennan, a daughter of Bernard Cunz Mrs. Knolley, Sallie Lavey, Mrs. Kinney mother of Joseph Kinney, a child of John Murk, Mrs Nixon, Mrs Tyon, James Howard Mrs. J Craig, J J Craig, Mrs. Rachael Ford, David Fisher Margaret Fisher, George Fisher, John H Fisher, the Fishers' servant girl and five unknown bodies.

Kernville is in a deplorable condition, The living are unable to take care of the dead. The majority of the inhabitants were drowned. Boards have been erected on the only street remaining in town to place the bodies on This is the headquarters for the committee. As quickly as the dead are brought in they are placed in boxes, and taken to the cemetery and buried

A milkman who was overcharging for milk this morning narrowly escaped lynching The infuriated men appropriated all his milk and distributed it among the poor and then drove him out of town.

The body of the Hungarian who was lynched in an orchard last night has been recovered by his friends. The inhuman monster was noticed as he cut off four fingers of a woman a body He dropped the fingers into his pocket where they were found when he was captured The act maddened the men, and they took him to an orchard on the hillside and hung him

There is but one street left in town About 155 houses are standing where once stood a thousand

One thousand is the lowest estimate of the number of lives lost from this town But a few bodies have been recovered A walk through the town reveals a desolate sight Only about twenty five able bodied men have survived and are able to render any assistance

Men and women can be seen with black eyes bruised faces and cut heads. They were injured in the flood and since that have not slept. Their faces have turned sickly yellow and dark rings surround their eyes Many of the women have succumbed to nervous prostrations. For two days but little assistance could be rendered them Some of the wounded remained uncared for in some houses cut off by the water, and died from their injuries. Some were alive on Sunday and their shouts could be heard by the people on the shore

A man who was caught stealing a gold watch is now in the temporary jail of what is left of the town A shot was fired at him, but he was not wounded. The only thing that saved him from lynching was the smallness of the crowd

The services in the chapel from which the bodies were buried consisted merely of prayer by one of the survivors. No minister was present Each coffin had a descriptive card on it and on the graves a similar card was placed, so that the bodies could be removed later by friends.

The Cambria hospital has now 200 patients. Dr Buck with a corps of aids is in charge Two of the patients died yesterday The remainder of the patients are doing well

The hospital in the upper part of Johnstown is full to overflowing Many of the sufferers have been carried to the surrounding houses.

Hospitals have been established at Conemaugh and minor points But little could be learned of how many patients they contained and how they were faring

AN ALLEGED MIRACLE.

How a Statue of the Blessed Virgin Escaped Injury.

A miracle, as it is called, that happened at the Church of the Immaculate Conception has caused a tremendous sensation. A large number of persons will testify as to the nature of the event, and the circumstances are really remarkable. Devotions were in progress Friday when the water descended on Cambria City, and the church was filled with people at the time, but when the noise of the flood was heard the congregation hastened to get out of the way They succeeded as far as escaping from the water was concerned, and in a few minutes the church was partly submerged, the water reaching fifteen feet up the sides and swirling around the corners furiously The building was badly wrecked, benches were torn out and in general the entire structure, both inside and outside, was fairly dismantled Yesterday morning, when an entrance was forced, the ruin appeared to be complete. One object alone had escaped the water's wrath The statue of the Blessed Virgin that had been decorated and adorned because of the many devotions, was as unsullied as the day it was made The marks on the wall showed that the surface of the water had risen to a height of fifteen feet, while the statue, which is three feet high, had been free from all contact with the liquid.

Every one that has seen the statue and its surroundings is firmly convinced that the incident was a most miraculous one, and even to the most skeptical the affair has a savoring of the supernatural.

There are about thirty Catholic priests and nuns here who are devoting themselves to the care of the sick and injured. Bishop Phelan has organized a Catholic hospital for this neighborhood and all are devoting their lives to the hard work assiduously What those people would have done without the sisters is a difficult question to answer

Among the priests there are Rev. Fathers Guido Goebel Teggabe, Gallagher, Troutwein Rosenstreet Doran, Corcoran, Devlin, Boyle, Smith, O Connell and Lambing

J. J. Murphy, a bookseller of Pittsburg haunted the morgue all day His brother James and his entire family have been lost, and Murphy is looking for the remains. Every fresh arrival of ghastly burdens is the subject of anxious inquiry, but as yet he has not discovered his relatives.

There is much comment on the finding of the body of a nun cut in two It was at first thought that she was a resident of the Johnstown community, but no nuns of them have been reported missing the supposition is that she was travelling at the time of the accident on the day express.

THE DAMAGED RAILROADS

Large Forces of Men at Work Repairing the Lines.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 3.—The best information that can be obtained to day at the Pennsylvania office in this city is that the track will be patched up at Altoona within thirty-six hours, thus allowing to 800 or more East and West bound passengers laid up at that place an opportunity to get away

It is also stated here that only seven of the passengers of the ill fated train were lost

On the middle division of the main line the road is clear from Altoona to Petersburg From Huntington to Manayunk there are several bad breaks. All but one span of the Manayunk bridge has been swept away

East of that point, the Mayo bridge is gone, and but one span remains on the Granville bridge.

From Altoona westward on the main line the track is open to within a short distance of South Fork where the bridge was washed away Friday

Between South Fork and Johnstown 1000 men are busy putting the railroad in shape

At Johnstown and west of there several large gangs of workmen are employed.

It is not believed that passengers can be conveyed from Harrisburg to Pittsburg over the main line, fields of wreck or less dam Aside the transportation of freight and mails nothing definite can be learned.

No direct intelligence of any sort has been received from Lock Haven since 9 o clock Friday night A dispatch then received stated that a train and raised the adjutant general to ascertain Hatton's fate No one here knew anything about his whereabouts

This afternoon Wm. Henry Smith general manager of the Associated Press came in from Ebensburg, where he and Mr Hatton had been ever since the train was lost. They were on the train together and had a very narrow escape from death. All of the passengers, twelve or thirteen in number who left the train were

THE HORRORS OF WAR ECLIPSED

Drunken Strangers Driven From the Streets by the Police

THE SEARCH AMID THE RUINS

Governor Beaver Issues an Appeal for Aid—How the World Is Supplied With the Sad News —Scenes and Incidents.

JOHNSTOWN June 3—A sad and gloomy sky, almost as sad and gloomy as the human faces under it shrouded Johnstown to-day Rain fell all day, and added to the miseries of the wretched people.

The great plain, where the best part of Johnstown used to stand was half covered with water. The few sidewalks that escaped the flood were a few inches thick with black sticky mud, through which tramped a steady procession of people. Many women were left utterly destitute. The tents where the people are housed who cannot find other shelter, were cold and cheerless. The town seemed like a great tomb.

The people of Johnstown have stepped as full of horrors that they go about in a sort of daze, and only half realize their griefs. As one goes through the streets he hears the neighbors greeting each other, and then inquiring without a show of feeling how many each had lost in his family Every one has heard so much of these melancholy conversations that somehow the calamity has lost its significance to them They treat it exactly as if the dead persons had gone away and were coming back in a week.

The melancholy work of searching the ruins for more bodies went on to-day in the soaking rain There were little crowds of morbid curiosity hunters around each knot of workingmen. Even those who come in from the neighboring towns with the idea of a day's strange and ghastly experiences did not care to be near after they had seen one body exhumed There were hundreds and thousands of these visitors from the country to-day The effect of the dreadful things they saw and heard was to drive most of them to drink By noon the streets were beginning to be full of boisterous and noisy countrymen who were trying to counteract the strain on their nerves with unnatural excitement. One-half of the police force seeing the unseemly sights that were likely to disgrace the streets, drove out and kept out all visitors who had not some good reason for their presence

After that and far into the evening all of the streets were filled with drunken stragglers, who were trying to forget what they had seen

One thing that makes the work of searching for bodies very slow is the strange way that great masses of objects were rolled into intricate masses of rubbish. As the flood came down the valley of the South Fork it obliterated the suburb of Woodville, where not a house was left nor a trace of one. The water as they had contained was rolled down the valley and ground up to a pulp, and finally left against some unusually firm foundation or on an eddy These masses contain human bodies but it is slow work to pick them to pieces.

Inside of one of them to-day I saw the remnants of a carriage the body of a harnessed horse, a baby, cradle and doll, a rocking horse, a tress of woman's hair and a piece of beefsteak still hanging to the hook

The city is very much better patrolled than it has been at any time since the flood occurred. Many members of the police force of Pittsburg came in and offered their services One of them showed his pluck by striking a man whom he saw robbing a trunk among the rubbish a tremendous blow over the head which knocked him senseless.

Several big trunks and safes lie in full sight on the desolate plain in the lower part of town, but no one dared to touch them after that.

Manager Dougherty tells a thrilling story of a ride down the river on a log When the waters struck the roof of the house on which he had taken shelter, he jumped astride a telegraph pole, riding a distance of some twenty three miles from Johnstown to Bolivar, before he was rescued.

Many inquiries have been made as to why the military did not respond when ordered out by Adjutant-General Hastings In the first place, it is beyond the general's authority to order troops to a scene of this kind unless the governor issues a proclamation then it becomes his duty to issue an order

The general said that he was notified that the Pittsburg troops consisting of the Fourteenth and Eighteenth regiments had tendered their services, and no doubt would have been of great service. The general consulted with Chief Bureau of Johnstown and the sheriff of Cambria county in regard to calling troops to the scene, but both officials strenously objected

General Hastings said that he estimated the loss of human lives at not less than 7000.

A SCARCITY OF COFFINS.

Bodies Placed in Rough Boxes and Immediately Buried.

Ever since the recovery of the first body the populace have not had near enough coffins for the dead although hundreds are so daily, and, owing to the decomposed condition of most of the bodies, they have to be boxed up in rough board boxes and buried at once

A man named Christ Myers has been rendered completely insane by the fact that his mother, father, two sisters and brother are among the missing When informed of the loss of his friends he threw up his hands and exclaimed: "My God what will come next From that time, which was last night he has been hopelessly insane even at times bordering on the violent and wanting to kill himself

The anxious inquiries sent by President Harrison to-day caused the belief that ex Postmaster-General Hatton was among the passengers who were killed on the Pennsylvania road last Friday. President Harrison knew that Hatton was on that train and asked the adjutant general to ascertain Hatton's fate No one here knew anything about his whereabouts

This afternoon Wm. Henry Smith general manager of the Associated Press came in from Ebensburg, where he and Mr Hatton had been ever since the train was lost. They were on the train together and had a very narrow escape from death. All of the passengers, twelve or thirteen in number who left the train were

ODDS AND ENDS

Pontoons To Be Supplied by the War Department.

About 1 o'clock this afternoon telegraph Superintendent Hatton requesting that government pontoons be forwarded to enable a safe passage to be effected across the field of the charred ruins above Johnstown bridge for the purpose of procuring bodies Orders for the delivery of the pontoons were issued from the proper authorities at Washington and will be forwarded by the Secretary of War

Ten bodies have been recovered during the week near the Conemaugh river, seven in Kiskiminetas and three in Johnstown

Captain Kuhn of Cambria county claims that the entire population on which the flood struck in Johnstown and the surrounding towns numbered 24,000 which will entail a loss of about 8000

Mrs Cyrus Campbell of Allegheny City and Mrs Wm Hutton of Hutchinson have gone to the scene of the disaster for the relief of homeless children

A ferry now plying up and on the lower part of town will only be in use until the bridge is completed, which it is hoped will be done at the point where the old county bridge stood

A man named Magee was seen on his way from South Fork to Johnstown He said that he was standing on the edge of the lake when the wall burst The water was rising all day and was on a level with the pinnacle of the hill and was then above the walls of the dam All of a sudden it burst with a report like a cannon and the water started down the valley, sweeping before it trees and houses, chips and buildings as if they were matches The roar was deafening The lake was emptied in an hour and a half All the water he said was new water

The Pan Handle is in a terrible condition At some points the bank is gone and the rails left deep wore washed in the trades

On his way down he stopped at Mineral Point where sixteen houses were washed away and several lives lost

At East Conemaugh thirty houses were carried away by the flood The loss of life there was large

At this hour, three days have passed since the flood gates were opened and the waters shed down upon the mountain city, and order is slowly arising out of the chaos

The greatest cry is for men men who will work and not stand idly by and do nothing but gaze at the ruins

An order was posted on the telegraph poles in Johnstown to-day by the citizens committee as follows "There are now enough people that employment can be found for every man who wants work and men offered work who refuse to take the same and who are able to work must leave Johnstown for the present We cannot afford to feed men who will not work All work will be paid for The strangers and tramps who refuse to work will be expelled from Johnstown

Office rooms were stationed at every avenue and railroad that entered the town All suspicious looking characters are stopped But the question is asked "Is this right?" Unfortunately the answer is given that a man is escorted to an employment room where he is put to work if not, he is turned back

There are a lot of able vagabond negroes in Johnstown who will not work It is likely that the committee will escort them out of town They have been the most trouble during the past terrible days

It is all well enough a disagreeable one to say that no able bodied committee should refuse to take its own duty out of turn But it positively refused to do any work but would hang around the corner eating food The leaders of the committee then had to do all the work They deserve much credit

DIFFICULTIES OF THE REPORT R

Men Are Working Day and Night, But the Work Moves Slowly.

JOHNSTOWN, June 3 The difficulties to which the rescuers of the people have to contend in this region are almost beyond description For the past few days bodies, cattle and other accidents strewed themselves for miles and miles over the valley and hills, but the ravages of the Associated Press finally brought to a close all means of communication from the outside world, there was a diagram left hanging on a wall in the Western Union office giving the location of the bodies found and the number of each Undertakers' supplies and coffins were early on the ground, but the men who were to bury the dead were not to be had

SCENES AT CONEMAUGH

A Graphic Description of the Flood's Mad Race.

AS TOLD BY AN EYE WITNESS

A Wild Flight of Passengers From Storm Bound Trains—Many Lives Lost and Much Property Destroyed

PITTSBURG, June 3—The following dispatch was sent by order from Edgar Thomson on June 1 by William Hasson, train conductor, Eugene, the assorted press, who was a passenger on the day express and was an eye witness of the scenes at Conemaugh on the night of the terrible calamity it reached here to night

PITTSBURG, PA, June 1

The first line trains that leave Chicago at 3 35 and Cincinnati at 7 45 P M constitute a day express eastward from Fort Wayne, which runs in two sections This train left Pittsburg on time Friday morning but was stopped for an hour at Johnstown's reported and consequent delay Had been raining hard for over sixteen hours, and the sides of the mountains were covered with water descending into the valley The Conemaugh river whose bank is followed by the Pennsylvania railroad for many miles looked angry and was nearly bank full The passengers were interested in seeing hundreds of sawlogs and an enormous amount of driftwood shoot rapidly by and the train pursued its way eastward

At Johnstown there was a long wait as before stated The lower stories of many houses were submerged by the water and the inhabitants were looking out of second story windows Horses were standing up to their knees in water in the streets The side track of the railroad had been washed out Loaded cars were on the bridge to keep it steady, and the huge poles of the Western Union, carrying fifteen wires, were swaying badly and several soon went down

The two sections ran to Conemaugh about two miles this side of Johnstown and lay there about three hours when they were moved on to the high ghest ground, and placed side by side The mail train was placed in the rear of the first section and a freight train was run on to the sidetrack on the bank of the Conemaugh

The report was that a bridge had been washed out carrying away one track, and that the other track was unsafe There was a rumor also that the reservoir at South Fork some time ago a feeder of the Pennsylvania canal but latterly the property of a club at Pittsburg, and used for hunting and fishing, was mauled and might break This made most of the passengers uneasy, and they kept a pretty good outlook for information The porters of the Pullman cars remained at their posts and comforted the passengers with assurances that the Pennsylvania Company always took care of its patrons A few gentlemen and some ladies and children quietly seated themselves apparently contented One gentleman had a few words made up and was ready to retire, although advised not to do so

Soon the cry came, The water in the reservoir has broken down the barriers and is sweeping down the valley Instantly there was a panic and a rush for the mountain side Children were carried and women assisted by the few who kept cool as ice It was a race for life Soon was seen the black head of the flood now a monster of destruction, whose crest was high raised in air and with this in view even the weak found wings for their feet

No words can adequately describe the terror that filled every breast, or the awful power manifested by the flood The roundhouse had stalls for twenty three locomotives There were eight or twenty of these At this time a an ominous crash and the roundhouse and locomotives disappeared Everything, in the main track of the flood was first lifted up in the air and then swallowed by the waters A number of houses were swept away in the immediate vicinity These included the hotel, stores and saloons on Main street, and residences adjacent

A locomotive of one of the trains was struck by a house and demolished The side of another house stopped in front of another locomotive and scarcely a shock The rear car of the mail train swung around in the rear of the second section of the express and turned over on its side There were several cars standing upon it even floated When the tender, or the still upright Pullman car, or anything broke and the car moved out upon the bosom of the waters As it moved it became unsteady and would shift their positions The situation was desperate and they were given up for lost Two or three hardy men seized ropes in the caboose, and clambered with the agility of monkeys to the roof of the car, and fastened one end of the rope to the stove in the car, and threw the other end to the shore Then they fastened themselves to the rope and with the assistance of the trainmen on the shore, they were pulled safely to land

Another train of passengers was not such as to encounter the terrible fury to which the passengers of the express were exposed They were in the abandoned tile factory that first became a morgue—before the dead pile of the faber shared quarts a week in the past As the wind blew from the black and ruins on the river, quantities of burning and debris came flying through the open windows and added to the horrors of the experience A number heard that rested upon the heads of upturned barrels as the tide rose Agents of the representatives of the Associated Press, and tallow candles in bott cracks have usurped gas and the electric light

Harry W Orr of Pittsburg, the operator who, in this terrible flood has distinguished himself by a display of fortitude and endurance seldom witnessed in even an iron steel and grease firmly a hot rides on a dying cattle bulk, that surrounds him, as he ticks away at the rate of forty words per minute to eleven operators that receive simultaneously on the great associated press circuit that extends from Johnstown bridge to New York Pittsburg, Cleveland Toledo Columbus Cincinnati Detroit, Chicago St Paul and Minneapolis

After seventy two hours of continuous service broken at no time by more than a couple of hours hasty slumber, W C Connelly jr, Associated Press agent who chartered a train to beat all competitors to the scene of the flood has been forced this afternoon to succumb to the mandate of nature and seek repose in his Pittsburg home During his brief absence his place is filled by a less able though no less zealous representative who will follow carefully every turn of the panorama in this shifting scene of disaster.

PICTURES OF DESPAIR.

Scenes of Woe Unrelieved by a Single Gleam of Sunshine.

A broken hearted couple are Thomas Lydon and wife, hard working people of the little town of Bluerock A few days they have been trudging over ridges and along the railroad, looking every person for news of their daughter Mary

Reuben Cunningham was tramping anxiously from looking like a maniac Reaching his destination he was almost overcome, but managed to stagger after many exciting experiences When the flood came down upon them they were then four miles from the scene, and story is often told in that they were kept out of reach by fear that they would be through a rush of water after their children But the house tops in the neighborhood

Where Woods Run once stood there is now a mass of muddy debris, marked by a pole of wreckage An associated press correspondent waded through the debris in the valley to day over the side of the former village

As has been said with standing but the old two miles The place is a swept ruin of all dwellings but the ruins of the lumber mill and the railroad The tracks were carried off standing upon it even floated When the tender, or the still upright Pullman car, or anything broke and the car moved out upon the bosom of the waters As it moved it became unsteady and would shift their positions The situation was desperate and they were given up for lost Two or three hardy men seized ropes in the caboose, and clambered with the agility of monkeys to the roof of the car, and fastened one end of the rope to the stove in the car, and threw the other end to the shore Then they fastened themselves to the rope and with the assistance of the trainmen on the shore, they were pulled safely to land

GOV BEAVER CALLS FOR AID.

Which Has Been Given, but More is an Absolute Necessity.

HARRISBURG, Pa, June 3—Late to night Governor Beaver issued a strong appeal for aid It is addressed to the people of the United States, and reads as follows

The executive of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania has refrained hitherto from making an appeal to the people for their contribution for the relief of the unparalleled calamity, the definite, reliable information from the centers of the disaster during the late floods, which have been unprecedented in the history of the state or the nation Communication by wire has been established with Johnstown to day The civil authorities are in control the adjutant general of the state co operating with them Order has been restored and is likely to continue

Newspaper reports as to loss of life and property have not been exaggerated The valley of the Conemaugh which is peculiar has been swept from one end to the other with the besom of destruction It contained a population of 40 000 to 50 000 people living for the most part along the banks of a small river, confined within narrow limits The most conservative estimates place the loss of life at 5000 human beings, and property at $25,000,000 Whole towns have been utterly destroyed and not a vestige remains In the more substantial towns the better buildings, to a certain extent remain, but in a damaged condition Many suffered the loss of everything The most pressing needs, so far as food is concerned have been supplied Shoes and clothing of all kinds for men women and children are greatly needed Money is also urgently required to remove the debris bury the dead and care temporarily for the widows and orphans and for homeless families The citizens of localities have suffered to some extent in the same way, but not in the same degree

Late advices would seem to indicate that there is a great loss of life and destruction of property along the west branch of the Susquehanna, and in localities from which we can get no definite information What does come, however, is of an appalling character and it is expected that the details will add new horrors to the situation

Responses from within and without the state have been most generous and cheering From the North and the South, the East and the West the same response has come of sympathy and help The president, governors of states, mayors of cities and individuals and communities, private and municipal corporations seem to be vying with each other in their expression of sympathy and in their contributions of substantial aid But grateful as their responses are, there is no danger of the receding necessities

Local subscription has been made up on the ground for the distribution of whatever reassistance is furnished The adjutant general of the state is here as the representative of the state authorities and is in personal communication in conference with the chief burgess of Johnstown and the committee of relief, to distribute help which is furnished

Funds contributed in aid of the sufferers can be deposited with Drexel & Co Philadelphia Jacob E Bonbright, banker Harrisburg or William H Thompson & Co bankers, Pittsburg All money contributed will be used for the needy sufferers Present wants are fairly met A large force will be employed at once to remove the debris and bury the dead, so as to avoid disease and epidemic

The people of the commonwealth and others whose unselfish generosity is hereby heartily appreciated and acknowledged, may be assured that the contributions will be faithfully husbanded and judiciously expended, and that every effort possible will be made to bring their benefactions to the immediate and direct relief of those for whose benefit they are intended

AN APPEAL TO THE PRESIDENT.

The National Authorities Are Doing All That Lies in Their Power

WASHINGTON June 3—The Masonic relief committee telegraphed the president this afternoon urging the appointment of a Masonic committee to take charge of the sanitary affairs at the scene of the disaster

It was urged that the presence of so many dead bodies would unnerve the living workers, besides polluting the water of the streams, affecting all the country between Pittsburg and New Orleans.

President Harrison conferred with General Schofield, and shortly after Surgeon General Hamilton was summoned to take part in the conference

Dr Atkinson, of the national sanitary corps said that he would confer with and assist the Pennsylvania state board of health In any mess as yet it might institute for the public health and comfort and Surgeon General Hamilton said that he would go to Pittsburg to give advice and assistance As to whatever was undertaken, it might be carried forward by official sanction and authority Instructions in accordance with this decision were also telegraphed to Dr Atkinson by surgeon General Hamilton

The following telegram was received this evening by President Harrison from Governor Beaver "The sheriff of Cambria County says that he can not control the situation without the aid of troops The people are fairly housed and good order prevails The supply of food so far is equal to the demand, but supplies of food and clothing are still greatly needed Conservative estimate placed on the loss of life is from 5000 to 10,000 and the loss of property from $25,000 000 to $30,000 000 The people are at work heroically, and will have a large force to morrow clearing away the debris The sympathies of the world are freely expressed One telegram from England gives $10,000 Help must still respond In the light of this calamity the destruction at Cincinnati sinks into insignificance In the latter place they were all ready to bring in the dead on stretcher How many were here at dinner time and the South Fork could not be told and may never be known There were some passengers and possibly forty or fifty inhabitants.

The loss of property is enormous. The track of the railroad company is certainly destroyed from at least a mile below South Fork and all other property of the company on the line will alone reach many millions Then in this region add the value of the houses and public buildings in that city and the villages above and below it and some idea can be formed of the wealth of that created by the flood and the breaking of the reservoir and this reservoir was made and used for the pleasure of the wealthy club Its embankment was easily capable of water three miles long, one mile wide and seventy feet deep, for the recreation of a few pleasure seekers What would happen if there should be a break must have been imperfectly apprehended, since it is said that a load of only three millions had been exacted from the club How are millions to atone for this awful destruction of property? Only the Storer the Lord

Many exaggerated stories are current As these grow as often as they are repeated, it will be many days before the real facts can be approximated

It is feared that John W Bain, of 278 and 280 Broadway, New York was drowned, as he had lain down in his berth but a few minutes before the break and he was not seen afterwards. It was reported that Mr Webb, boss carpenter, Wierman, civil engineer and an engineer and fireman who were with Assistant superintendent Thomas special were drowned, and that Mr Trumpeseppeck by climbing a tree. This has since been contradicted It was also reported that the limited express that left Chicago Thursday evening was swallowed up and all on board lost But this is incorrect as the limited and Atlantic express are both at Altoona.

A representative of the associated press was on the second section caught at Conemaugh and after witnessing the worst there proceed a team until the telegraph communication was established at Johnstown Despairing of getting off his report by telegraph He hoped he could do was to send a few words to the Philadelphia office saying the passengers of the train had escaped. If there's beyond Conemaugh there are fears of many hearts in different cities What lies in the waste of Johnstown is enough to impress truth obscurity WILLIAM HENRY SMITH

THE FLOOD AT WASHINGTON.

After Reaching the Highest Mark on Record, the Waters Are Falling

WASHINGTON June 3—After reaching the highest mark on record yesterday afternoon, the Potomac began to fall rapidly and this morning the streets in South Washington were free from water All along the river front it gradually receded throughout the day bringing the wharves once more to view Hundreds of logs were left behind by the receding stream and caught with the hands by three boys and men who searched through the wet grass and elsewhere for them

It was urged that the presence of so many dead bodies would unnerve the living workers, besides polluting the water of the streams, affecting all the country between Pittsburg and New Orleans.

President Harrison conferred with General Schofield, and shortly after Surgeon General Hamilton was summoned to take part in the conference

Dr Atkinson, of the national sanitary corps said that he would confer with and assist the Pennsylvania state board of health In any mess as yet it might institute for the public health and comfort and Surgeon General Hamilton said that he would go to Pittsburg to give advice and assistance As to whatever was undertaken, it might be carried forward by official sanction and authority Instructions in accordance with this decision were also telegraphed to Dr Atkinson by surgeon General Hamilton

The following telegram was received this evening by President Harrison from Governor Beaver "The sheriff of Cambria County says that he can not control the situation without the aid of troops The people are fairly housed and good order prevails The supply of food so far is equal to the demand, but supplies of food and clothing are still greatly needed Conservative estimate placed on the loss of life is from 5000 to 10,000 and the loss of property from $25,000 000 to $30,000 000 The people are at work heroically, and will have a large force to morrow clearing away the debris The sympathies of the world are freely expressed One telegram from England gives $10,000 Help must still respond In the light of this calamity the destruction at Cincinnati sinks into insignificance In the latter place they were all ready to bring in the dead on stretcher How many were here at dinner time and the South Fork could not be told and may never be known There were some passengers and possibly forty or fifty inhabitants.

The loss of property is enormous. The track of the railroad company is certainly destroyed from at least a mile below South Fork and all other property of the company on the line will alone reach many millions Then in this region add the value of the houses and public buildings in that city and the villages above and below it and some idea can be formed of the wealth of that created by the flood and the breaking of the reservoir and this reservoir was made and used for the pleasure of the wealthy club Its embankment was easily capable of water three miles long, one mile wide and seventy feet deep, for the recreation of a few pleasure seekers What would happen if there should be a break must have been imperfectly apprehended, since it is said that a load of only three millions had been exacted from the club How are millions to atone for this awful destruction of property? Only the Storer the Lord

Many exaggerated stories are current As these grow as often as they are repeated, it will be many days before the real facts can be approximated

It is feared that John W Bain, of 278 and 280 Broadway, New York was drowned, as he had lain down in his berth but a few minutes before the break and he was not seen afterwards. It was reported that Mr Webb, boss carpenter, Wierman, civil engineer and an engineer and fireman who were with Assistant superintendent Thomas special were drowned, and that Mr Trumpeseppeck by climbing a tree. This has since been contradicted It was also reported that the limited express that left Chicago Thursday evening was swallowed up and all on board lost But this is incorrect as the limited and Atlantic express are both at Altoona.

A representative of the associated press was on the second section caught at Conemaugh and after witnessing the worst there proceed a team until the telegraph communication was established at Johnstown Despairing of getting off his report by telegraph He hoped he could do was to send a few words to the Philadelphia office saying the passengers of the train had escaped. If there's beyond Conemaugh there are fears of many hearts in different cities What lies in the waste of Johnstown is enough to impress truth obscurity WILLIAM HENRY SMITH

Another Mystery of the Sun River Country.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS

A Mother's Disappointment—Arrest of a Counterfeiter—A Burglar Who Snored—Two Murderers at Large

HELENA, June 3—An interesting story with the elements of a dark mystery mixed in with it comes from the Sun river country, in Northern Montana, through the columns of the local paper At the hot springs in North fork canyon lives old man Patrick and his aged spouse Together they have lived there for some years past holding down a valuable mineral spring, and subsisting on the fruits of the chase in winter and such light labor as the old man is able to perform The old couple are the parents of a numerous family, few, if any, of whom remain at home for any consider able length of time A little over a year ago John Patrick's son came home to the old folks after an absence of sixteen years Figuratively speaking the old folks killed the fatted calf Then, after a time, John went to work chopping cordwood in one of the numerous camps of that vicinity After working for some time he lost his horse Borrowing one her from one of the choppers, he started east for home in quest of the stray He found his horse there His insisted upon returning that night despite the protestations of his mother, asserting that his friend's horse ought not to be kept from him longer than necessary That was the last ever seen of John. He never reached the camp and his whereabouts has never been discovered, although diligent search has been made in the neighborhood His disappearance remains a mystery All traces of him were lost, except that after going a short distance from the house, he had camped for the night, and had again moved off in the morning About two months after that one of the horses returned in a famished condition It showed every evidence of having been fettered for a long time, and had only been loosened in time to reach home to die John's disappearance could not be accounted for except on the supposition that he had become deranged and wandered away, leaving his horse tied

This spring, nearly a year since young Patrick's disappearance, Rockie, a wood chopper and prospector came across a bundle of blankets a broken saddle, and bridle once the property of the missing man A fearful snow storm was raging at the time so that "Rockie" could make no further investigations at that time He came down from the mountains and reported the find and now a vigorous search is being made for the body

This section, at the head of Sun river holds secret many dark mysteries In the early days of that territory the road agents made use of its inaccessible location to stow away their booty, and dead bodies of their victims and to hide from the victimizers It was in this neighborhood that Meloed an early settler of the south Fork valley, was murdered and disappeared, no mystery hanging over the section, and some weird stories and horrifying incidents are related with blood thrilling detail by the old timers The strange fate of John Patrick is only in keeping with the records of the past.

THE FATHER BROKE HIS PROMISE.

A Mother Regains Her Child, Only To Be Deceived and Lose It Again.

SPOKANE FALLS, June 3—For several days T B Gilliam, a well known San Francisco insurance man has been at the Windsor hotel accompanied by a woman whom he called his wife, and a little girl 5 years old Yesterday morning the pair took a walk, leaving the child at the hotel During their absence a strange lady called and took the child away. Upon their return they notified the police, who found the child at the Arlington hotel in possession of the woman who carried it way, and who proved to be the mother, and Gilham's divorced wife

The parents of the child talked the matter over and a compromise was agreed upon the mother permitting Gilliam to take the child back to the Windsor upon his promise to return it before night This he did not do, but left town with the woman and child during the temporary absence of Gilliam, who is an artist, will remain here until she can earn money enough to continue the pursuit. She has an art studio in San Francisco She procured a divorce in San Francisco last fall nothing being said about the possession of the child The mother has been following Gilliam since March, being detained several weeks in Lewiston by a fever. She says the woman with Gilliam is not his wife.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS

Adjournment of the Board to Meet in Portland To-Day.

SALEM Or June 3—The state board of railroad commissioners was in regular monthly session to-day Then summed up the testimony taken in a number of cases where persons had been killed by trains. The board have been killed within the state during May by having been run over by trains. In each case investigation reveals that carelessness or drunkenness of the person killed was the cause of the accident.

The commissioners received a communication from the Board of Trade of Junction City, asking them to recommend to the Southern Pacific Company extension of its line from Corvallis to Junction

They also received a petition from thirty seven citizens of Grant's Pass, asking the board to recommend a reduction of freight on vegetables and melons from Southern Oregon to Portland and intermediate points.

It was decided that the board will hold a conference with the transportation companies relative to the petitions presented by the people

SPRINGFIELD

LANE COUNTY, OREGON

Its Great Water Power, Timber, Manufacturing and Agricultural Resources. Its Proximity to the State University Present Business Relationship by Rail and Its Future Prospects.

The town of Springfield is situated on the east bank of the Willamette River, 3½ miles east from Eugene City and 3 miles from the State University It is located 18 miles below the point where the river issues from the Cascade Mountains, and is in the most productive part of the Willamette Valley and State of Oregon A fact, which which will not be disputed by anyone acquainted with the locality and state.

The prosperity of the place its great water power and manufacturing facilities has been sadly delayed for years because it lacked railroad facilities The Oregon and California Railroad having been constructed three-quarters of a mile away, on the opposite side of the river, in a competitive sense, made the handling of the common products of the country very unremunerative and the skilled product nearly impossible Happily these embarrassing drawbacks are now about to be removed by a change of the railway to the town itself, and the certainty of, in the near future, having a branch from the Southern Pacific Railway, starting from Springfield and ultimately connecting on the east side of the mountains with some the preliminary surveys of which have been made, and that will start from the C & O line at the Klamath River crossing, and will extend up the river, entering Oregon at the Klamath Lakes, and extend north to the Columbia River The cross route, starting from Springfield, after connecting with this line will without doubt be continued on to a connection with the C P R R at or near Humboldt Station in Nevada, thus adding to the S P R R lines a network of railways in Oregon which will fully develop all resources of the state This line when constructed will bring Portland Southeastern Oregon and the towns of the Willamette Valley into the same relationship, as to distance of transit to the Atlantic states and territories, as San Francisco and towns in the Sacramento Valley As an indication of these facts we give here a brief quotation from a recent letter from General Manager A N Towne to a property holder and former resident of Springfield in reference to the start from that point, where he says "See Mr Koehler, who will be able to suggest some plan whereby he can help you out with your product from Springfield for the present, perhaps, by a line laid down to the river, with the view of extending on from Springfield up over the mountains in the future"

The water power is one of the most extensive in the state can be increased from present power of 1500 horse to 4000 horse-power, and is certainly and beyond all question the safest to be found in the state and manageable with least expense

MANUFACTURING—There is now located on the power within town limits, extensive lumbering mills for sawing, planing and preparing from the raw material timber and finishing lumber to the extent of millions of feet for the consumption of the country an extensive flouring mill and a building ready for the manufacture of sash doors, etc Arrangements have been perfected likewise for the location of an iron foundry and machine shops the manufacturing of all classes of cooper work Material for such wares will be prepared from the raw material for shipment to foreign ports What is now needed to work up the products of the county is the establishment of paper and woolen and agricultural machinery, also machines for manufacturing excelsior, starch shingles the material for which is abundant Parties looking for a place at which to locate such industries will find this one of the most favorable of locations Sufficient grounds will be given without cost for all needed building purposes, for such machinery and room for milling the same Power at $7 50 per horse-power per year for a period of ninety nine years, and for the first two years lease at mere nominal rates Dockage will be owned by owners and operators can be had at very low rates, and in exceptional cases without cost This will likewise be found to be a most favorable location for dry goods and grocery stores and these are particularly wanted now also a shop where custom made and improved boots and shoes can be obtained A doctor surgeon druggist jeweler gunsmith, saddler and harness shop barber shop hotels butcher, hardware houses, all needed

FOR HEALTH—There is no town on the Pacific Slope that can boast of better facilities for drainage and pure water It is not only supplied with the inexhaustible sources of the mountains, which can be handled with great ease and cheapness for house purposes but because of the fall from the surface of the water power into the stream, in all 83 feet, sewerage and perfect cleanliness can be made perfect with slight cost

TIMBER RESOURCES—This is one of the very important resources requisite to the business of this locality The vast forests of fir, cedar, hemlock pine, maple, alder and balm with limited supplies of oak and ash, can all be floated to the doors of the mills with but little expense, save cutting and putting into the stream, and for purposes of paper pulp the vast forests of balm and the perfect straw of the various grains is beyond all demand For such purposes the potatoes can be supplied in quantities to meet all demands at prices varying from 12½ to 25 cents per bushel in all seasons Supplies of wool are produced in the lower valleys of excellent quality, and as soon as the railroad lines shall be completed across the mountains the wool of 80 000 to 100,000 sheep can be obtained from that part of Oregon lying east of the Cascade and south of the Blue Mountains

SPRINGFIELD AND EUGENE—I have before stated that Springfield and Eugene City are in close proximity to each other the distance between them being now but three miles with a new village already laid out between them, other portions of the intervening distance being sold in small tracts of a few acres and buildings commenced The region of country round about is not only extensive, but very fertile, producing all classes of grain and other products common to this latitude, but the network of railways will in the near future, and because of the manufacturing facilities of Springfield be the means of uniting the two places in one consolidated city and one corporation that in population and business will exceed any other city in the state, except Portland

Parties Wishing to Make Inquiry are Respectfully Referred to JOHN KELLY and ALMOND WHEELER of Springfield, or to H. C. HUMPHREY, ESQ., Banker, Eugene City.

THE STRICKEN CITY.

Slowly the Mangled Victims Are Being Taken Out.

A DAY OF DARKNESS AND HORROR

The Exact Extent of the Calamity Will Never Be Known.

FIFTY THOUSANDS HAVE PERISHED

A Fearless Paul Revere—The Bursting of the Dam—The Work of Relief—Scenes and Incidents in Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., June 3.—The dark disaster of the day, with its attendant terrors, finds the universe and draws two continents closer together in the bonds of sympathy that bind humanity The midnight horrors of Ashtabula and Chatsworth evoked universal pity from every fireside in Christendom, but the true story of Johnstown when all is known will stand solitary and alone as the scene of man's annihilation by the potent forces to which humanity are ever subject.

Monstrous clouds still hover darkly over the valley of death and the muttering thunder that here and anon reverberates in the distance seems like the sardonic chuckle of the demon of destruction. But the modern deluge has done its worst, for in Johnstown the waters are rapidly subsiding but the angry torrent still eddies around the scene of destruction and the time is not yet arrived to tell the pathetic tale of the devastation of that Black Friday It is not a hackneyed utterance today that no pen can adequately depict the horrors of these twin disasters the holocaust and deluge The deep emotions that well from the hearts of everyone, find the most eloquent expression in silence—the silence that bespeaks man's recognition of his subservance to the elements and his inability to sometimes avert a catastrophe

The morning opened dark and dreary Great drops of rain fall occasionally and another storm seems imminent Everyone feels thankful though, that the weather still remains cool and the gradual patrification of the hundreds of bodies that still have the streets and are lodged under miles of driftwood and debris is not hastened This among the peculiar stench of decaying human flesh is plainly perceptible to the senses as one stands on the bank for half a mile along the smoldering ruins of the wreck and the most skeptical cannot conceive the worst and realize perhaps that thousands of bodies are charred and blackened beneath this great funeral pyre The searchers wander wearily over the enormous mass, and all occasionally a sudden shout passes over the waters, the patient watchers on the hill realize that another ghastly discovery has been added to the long list of revelations that chill every heart, and turn faint to the eyes of pessimism From the banks many charred remains of the victims of the flames and flood are plainly visible as the receding waters reluctantly give up their dead. Beneath almost every log or bloated beam a skull or the blanched remaining limbs or limbs mark all that remains of the hopes and dreams.

The rescuing parties at work on the mass of unburned wreckage in the river are finding bodies and fragments at the rate of ten to fifteen an hour In another part of the submerged district many bodies have been taken out A careful estimate at this time of the bodies recovered at all places is in the number at about 700 to 800 The total loss of life is certainly from 6000 to 8000

AWAKING FROM THEIR STUPOR

The Stricken People Beginning to Realize the Magnitude of the Blow

JOHNSTOWN June 3.—Up to this morning people living here who lost their whole families and parts of the family hardly seemed to realize what a dreadful calamity had befallen them. However this morning the people are getting to understand the situation and appear in deep grief on the face of everyone and it is truly a city of mourning. Ten bodies were taken out of the debris up to this morning but there was nothing found by them by as they were burned almost to a crisp. It is thought however that every family in one family, as they were all found under the roof of a house partially burned The first man from the dam at South Fork has just arrived The dam burst in between in a broad break.

CLEARING UP THE DEBRIS

JOHNSTOWN June 3.—The sheriff has taken charge of Johnstown this morning and armed men are patrolling the streets A deputy sheriff shot two men this morning for robbing bodies The people who own property in the limits are permitted to enter the city but otherwise it is impossible to get into town.

A relief committee from Ohio is relieving distress inside A one hundred feet are here and are being utilized as fast as received. For the first time since the flood men have been put to work on the debris At the bridge this morning a man woman and child were taken from the ruins The child was pulled out alive but was dead and the two were exactly imbedded with the child. A number of dressings also took place The relatives of people who are supposed to be lost standing around watch every limb as it is pulled out They are more heartrendering than can be told.

BURNING THE DEAD

JOHNSTOWN June 3—Forts of the dead bodies are now at Johnstown still and will be burned as fast as possible Very few have been identified Fifty men are digging graves on a hill to protect it from Conemaugh sons But four were buried in those on the unfortunate train which stood at the bottom of the hill The cowers in the sleeper

SCENES IN JOHNSTOWN

The Place Under Martial Law—The Necessity for Speedy Burial.

JOHNSTOWN, June 3.—The town is under martial law, and everyone who goes about the place is challenged and required to give an account of himself The water has subsided to a great extent. The streets in the main part of town are free from water The falling water has laid bare the terrible work of the flood and the full extent of the disaster is only being ascertained now The streets have a sickening foul smell and are a mass of wood and debris The work of searching for bodies has only fairly begun The latest estimates put the loss of life from 10 000 to 12,000 It is impossible to get any account of those lost Everyone is so thoroughly tired out and overcome by the weight of the disaster as to be utterly unable to give any accurate details or figures Comparatively few have been identified

The Hotel Holbert was washed away and twenty two persons perished in the wreck

F McDonald conductor on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was at the Pennsylvania depot when the flood came He said when he first saw the flood it was thirty feet high, and rose to at least forty feet "No doubt the South Fork dam broke" said McDonald "Fifteen minutes before the flood came Decker the Pennsylvania railroad agent, send a message just received saying that the South Fork dam had broken As soon as they heard this the people in the station numbering 200, made a rush for the hill I certainly think I saw 100 bodies go over the bridge The first house that came down struck the bridge and at once took fire As fast as the others came down they were consumed I believe I am safe in saying that I saw 1000 bodies burn"

From under a large brick schoolhouse, 124 bodies were taken Last night and today in every corner and place, bodies are being found, and buried as fast as possible The necessity for speedy burial is becoming manifest for the stench that is arising is sickening A number of bodies have been found with bullet holes in them showing that maddened by fright, suicide was resorted to by many

A MODERN PAUL REVERE

The Brave Effort of a Nameless Rider to Save Lives at Johnstown.

A nameless Paul Revere lies somewhere among the nameless dead Who he is may never be known but his ride will be famous in history Mounted on a grand bay mare he came riding down the lake which passes through Conemaugh to Johnstown at the same angel of wrath of old, shouting his portentous warning Run for your lives to the hills! Run to the hills! The people crowded out of their houses along the thickly settled streets awe struck and wondering Nobody knew the man and none thought he was a maniac as he galloped On at a deadly pace rode this man still ringing out his awful cry In a few moments however there came to cloud of ruin down the broad streets, down the narrow alleys grinding thrashing hurling overturning crashing and annihilating the weak and strong alike Forty feet high some say and thirty according to others was this seething mass and it traveled with a swiftness like that which lay hidden in the heels of Mercury On and on raced the rider and on and on raced the wave Dozens of people took the head of warning and ran up the hills Poor faithful rider He was unequal to the contest Just as he turned to cross the railroad bridge a wave struck him and his horse, and rider and bridge went into the chaos

ESTIMATING THE LOSS.

All the Way From 4000 to 8000 People Have Perished

JOHNSTOWN June 3—There is no telling how many bodies have been lost Adjutant General Hastings who has charge of everything, stated this morning that he supposed that at least 3000 people are under the burning debris, but the only way to find out how many lives are lost is to take a census of the people living and subtract that from the census before the flood Said he "In my opinion there are all the way from 4000 to 8000 are lost"

Bishop D of Pittsburg arrived here this morning sent by the Chamber of Commerce. He the adjutant general has ordered them back because the Chamber of Commerce had no authority to send them

FETTER FUNDS AND ARTICLES

JOHNSTOWN June 3—A J Moxham president of the relief committee has arranged a storage and distributing system for the relief funds and articles They can be sent directly to Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN June 3—A train of five cars came in from Cumberland Md this morning, loaded with provisions There were also thirty men to help clear up the debris

JOHNSTOWN June 3—A relief train from Pittsburg reached here at 2 o'clock this morning At along the road at each town contributions were made and when Johnstown was reached the train had ten loaded cars

AN AWFUL MENACE TO HEALTH

Physicians Assert That the Pile of Debris and Corpses Should Be Allowed to Burn.

Up to 10 o clock last night fire engines have been busy and water has been constantly playing on the burning ruins At times the streams almost out, but the fitful flames would only break out afresh in a new quarter as it again the water and flames made fierce combat

The chief sensation of the morning has been the united remonstrance of physicians against the extinguishment of the burning pile Even men with a philosophy which means searcher seems horrified at the idea of hundreds if not thousands of rotting decaying bodies in this part of Pennsylvania It would be better they say to let the fire consume them than to expose the putrefying bodies to the breezes that waft disease and death Even now the effluvia from the ruins is perceptible and for days will be intolerable Then will come sufficient reason to permit the burning of these bodies—that is if people will be induced to remain Many of the frightful emanations of corruption will be carried by the wind and many more will be borne by the flood Pestilence will certainly follow in the wake of the awful calamity Johnstown battlefield has demons of its own Out of the hasty interment of many bodies, and the stench that already arises is a forerunner of impending danger Burn the wreck burn the wreck" is the cry and a loud cry of indignation rises from the lips of the vast multitude But the warnings of science are lost in the eager demands of those who seek the remains of dear and near ones The hose was again turned on the hissing mass, and rapidly the flames were reduced by the supreme force of water It is almost impossible to estimate the number of persons in the smoking ruins. There are eight or ten acres above the dam covered to a depth of forty feet with shattered houses, borne from the neighborhood of Johnstown In each of these houses it is estimated there were from one to twenty people This is accepted as a basis upon which to estimate the number that perished upon this spot and if the estimate be correct the bodies that are beneath the ruins must run well up into the hundreds, if not thousands

THE BURSTING OF THE DAM.

The Great Body of Water in the Lake Passed Out in an Hour

JOHNSTOWN June 3—Four gentlemen, relatives, members of the South Fork Fishing Club who had gone to meet friends at the lake have just returned They report no one at the lake except the custodians and some workmen The dam broke in the center at 3 o clock Friday afternoon, and at 4 the lake was dry That great body of water passed out in an hour An effort was made to avert the disaster by digging a sluiceway on one side to ease the pressure on the dam, but without avail The water passed over the dam about a foot above its top, beginning at 2 30 Whatever happened in the way of a cloudburst took place during the night There was but little rain up to dark and in the morning when the workmen awoke the lake was full and kept on rising rapidly until at 2 o'clock it began pouring over the dam and undermining it Men were sent three or four times during the day to warn the people below When the final crash came there was a sound like tremendous thunder Trees, rocks and earth shot into the air in great columns Then the wave started down the ravine

SUFFERING IN JOHNSTOWN

People in Need of Clothing—A Robber Lynched—Pitiful Stories and Scenes

JOHNSTOWN June 3—A cold wave has struck the town and people are badly in need of clothing

An exciting scene took place in Johnstown last night Hungarians were discovered in the act of blowing up the safe in the First National bank One man was strung up to a tree by the vigilance committee and remained hanging for several hours

JOHNSTOWN June 3—The bodies of Patrick Hogan wife and two children were found in the debris partly burned, this morning In one of a few remaining houses in Johnstown this morning, the searchers found and rescued a man so weak that he could not give his name The survivors are returning to the scene to search for loved ones and they furnish innumerable heart rending stories

A MOTHER'S PITIFUL STORY

Mrs Terry, wife of an engineer, tells a pitiful story Her husband went out and was swept away With her seven children she climbed to the second story and then to the attic She cheered the frightened little ones saying that God would care for them As the waters rose she was forced to fasten them, one by one to pieces of floating timber, and trust them to the pitiless waves, all the time speaking words of hope and encouragement and kissing them good by After all had gone the roof of the house was torn off and the frail little mother floated away with it and was rescued ten miles below Only two of her little brood of seven have been heard from, and they are drowned. She is only one mother of a hundred similarly situated

Three hundred bodies have been discovered in the sand at Kernville near the mouth of Sandy creek

It is now definitely settled that only four lives were lost on the train that left Pittsburg Friday morning

THE WORK OF RESCUE.

A hundred bodies were lying on the sand at Kernville this afternoon A crowd of 500 gathered around, endeavoring to find bodies of friends or relatives No coffins were there However there are 500 on the way here and undertakers have sent for 500 additional Kernville from now on will be the place where most of the bodies will be found It is though most of the bodies will be found under the pile of debris about an acre in length

Rain is now falling but does not interfere with the work Most of the rescuing party have been up to-day

The fire at the bridge is almost extinguished and the task of getting at the bodies under the burning debris will be begun in earnest

BETWEEN 12 000 AND 15,000 LOST

The Latest Estimates—Troubled With Thieves—At Other Places

HARRISBURG Pa June 3—Hastings has telegraphed the following to the manager of the telegraph company in this city In form Governor Beaver this morning that reports give the number lost at Johnstown at between 12 000 and 15 000 The greatest disorder prevails The place is infested with thieves and vandals who are robbing the dead and appropriating everything they can lay their hands on These people are calling almost everything in the shape of provisions sent here for the flood sufferers

DEVISING MEANS FOR RELIEF

WASHINGTON June 3—General Schofield acting secretary of war called at the White house this morning and remained with the president for hours conferring in regard to the best means of relieving the distress prevailing at Johnstown The president in consultation with the Red Cross authorities on the subject

A SANITARY COMMISSION WANTED

PITTSBURG June —The Mercantile fraternity at a meeting this morning decided that President Harrison in asking him to appoint a sanitary commission limited only and women, him that unless prompt action was taken to remove the dead both of men and animals from the streams the water will be polluted and will carry plague germs to the people from Pittsburg to New Orleans

A RAILROAD RUMOR.

Report That the St Paul & Omaha Will Appear on the Scene

The St Paul Pioneer Press of May 29 had the following dispatch from Spokane Falls

A private car of the Chicago St Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha arrived to day and was quietly sidetracked and left for a trip over the Eastern division of the Seattle & Lake Shore It is rumored though the greatest secrecy is maintained by all concerned that the Omaha company has formed a connection with the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company to connect lines, making a new transcontinental route It is known for certain that the Oregon company has entered into a contract to build here at once and give Spokane Falls terminal freight rates the same as Portland It is said recent surveying parties sent from Pierre Dakota were in view of this arrangement It is further announced that the delay in building an Eastern branch of the Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern was due to need of indorsement on that company's bond which the Omaha will do now At all events work on the Seattle road is to commence immediately and Seattle officials, though they will not talk, seem delighted with the arrival of the Omaha party, and hint that it means great things to railroad circles It is further said that if the present deal is completed the Manitoba will rush work so as to reach here as shortly as possible

AN UNFORTUNATE MAN

His Wife Lets Her Babies Perish and He Lives in a Root House.

The wife of Nicholas Longen, a well to do farmer of Walla Walla county attempted to have her husband committed for insanity, but he convinced the court that if either was insane it was the woman. He informed the board, says the Journal that his wife had been insane back East that to his knowledge she had killed one child with sour milk, and the other a mere baby he found one day, when coming home dead with its left arm Broken He felt sure that she had killed the child for she had often expressed a wish that it were dead He then washed the little corpse and placed upon it the long white robe in which it was baptised, and in it the little one was buried From that day on to this, I have had an aversion for the woman" he continued and I said to myself. No more babies' It was then that I converted the chicken coop and house into comfortable quarters and live in it while she lives in the regular dwelling house alone and disconsolate and thinks what's the matter with Hannah She is naturally a voluptuous woman with inordinate desires, and if any one is a fair subject for the insane asylum it is her and not me'

The man was at once discharged and the couple drove away together to their unhappy home

BAKER CITY, OREGON.

A Concise Statement of All the Advantages Offered to Settlers.

Inexhaustible Mines, Vast Forests, Pure Running Streams, Rich, Productive Soil and Almost Endless Stock Range.

Baker City is situated 357 miles southeast of Portland, and is within fifty miles of the eastern line of the state It is at the head of Powder river valley and upon the stream of that name The main thoroughfares of the city are lighted by gas the sidewalks wide and substantial, and the streets are kept clean The city is supplied by the Holly system of water works—just completed There is ample fire apparatus The city is governed by mayor and seven councilmen The city officials have contracted with a competent company and a street car line will be in operation in the near future It is surrounded on three sides by mountains the main valley lying to the north—a beautiful tract of agricultural and grass land, with a bountiful supply of water, with immense forests of timber adjacent, All cereals grow prolific and vegetables are produced in variety and quantity that cannot be excelled Everything except field corn is raised here and the yield is at least one-third larger than that of the same acreage in the Eastern states The grains, wheat, rye, barley and oats are of the best quality The best of the farming land, however is taken Improved land can be bought for from $15 to $30 per acre, the price asked is governed by location Fruit culture is in its infancy, but wherever tried has proved successful The foothills and mountains are covered with nutritious grasses, upon which all kinds of stock subsist and grow fat, during every month in the year There is plenty of water—it is secured in the valley at a depth of from eight to sixteen feet and is as the fountain of life pure cold and healthful

The timber which consists chiefly of pine, tamarack and juniper of which there are thousands of acres, cannot be duplicated on this continent It is easy of access and ready sale

The great mineral belt which extends from east to west 100 miles, with an average width of about fifty miles has within its limits the richest ore in the world consisting of gold silver copper lead and iron, but its development is as yet in its infancy Old time prospectors, grown gray in the hills, without capital, are the chief operators now Capital has until very recently passed by this rich field and has been placed in less remunerative investments nearer the coast line but the tide is gradually turning and whenever capital has been invested in these mines it has returned a large dividend to the fortunate investor The precious metals are here—in sight—and all that is wanting is men of capital energy and ability to develop, and the fact will be demonstrated that we have mines that will produce equal to any yet discovered in any country All that is desired is for practical men, men with money, to come here and investigate to the fullest extent It is not the purpose of our people to misrepresent, or 'boom,' we have kept upon safe ground

The growth of Baker City has been gradual but of a solid, substantial character its growth is steady its improvements modern—fine residences brick and stone business blocks, a beautiful location and its citizens as a whole, intelligent energetic and prosperous The city has the finest public school building in Eastern Oregon just completed a splendid courthouse, five magnificent church edifices, two academic school buildings, and its residences, many of which are palatial in size, will compare favorably with any town or city on the Western slope Manufacturing interests are represented by two planing mills, sash, door and blind factory, two breweries cigar factory, soap factory wagon and carriage shop, three harness and saddle factories or shops two brick works pump factory and creamery besides numerous wholesale outfitting establishments, and many industries just starting up The business men are capable and in their purchases are fully up with the times There are three newspapers two dailies and one job printing office and the permanent population 4000—transient in winter will probably reach 5000 inclusive Property in both city and country has a secure, firm value—secure from windy booming vagaries, which are so common in undeveloped districts and especially places which can come anywhere near competing with Baker City and its surroundings in all the resources which, when fully developed will make it the home of wealth plenty and enjoyment. Its rich inexhaustible mines, its vast forests of timber, its pure running streams, its rich, productive soil, awaits the advent of the husbandman possessed of a little capital and a strong willing will, to make these broad acres bloom its endless range and ad plation to stock raising and lastly its salubrious, healthful and invigorating climate gives it a pre eminence as being a veritable 'mine of health' for those broken down in body or mind, in search of themself We want capital for investment in our mines to develop and work them, we want practical men to come here and establish a woolen mill that we may have a home market for our wool, we want a good dry established horse choice (a better opening cannot be found West of Omaha) we want factories to reduce our rich ores to bullion and thereby turn into the millions now lying dormant and the channels of trade and commerce It costs an enormous sum to ship our ores away and yet it is done at a handsome profit We want to the seeking a safe investment to come and see for themselves, and we are willing to risk their decision The city is the outfitting point for all the mining and farming region for a large scope of country, has one through line of railroad from east to west, with the prospect of another being constructed from Baker to the south tapping the main belt of the timber regions and giving access to what has been heretofore an almost impenetrable rich mining and stock raising country When this road is built the trade of Baker City will be largely increased It will be the avenue by which thousands of tons of ore will be shipped to reduction works which must be in operation here in the near future, and the channel by which millions of feet of the finest lumber in the world will find a ready market and command a good price. We also have all other building materials in immense quantities—stone brick, clay, sand and limestone

Our principal developed mines are the Virtue Blaisdel, Conner Creek Rye Valley, Malheur Burnt River, Sanger Sparta, Cornucopia Cracker Creek Pocahontas Rock Creek, Granite Creek, Robinsonville and Greenhorn Mountain district While all of these are now paying richly, they are not at all developed When we speak here of mines in general terms, we aim to include in as short a space as possible both quartz and placer which are found in close proximity in the entire length and breadth of Baker county and within easy access of the city In this short circular letter we give facts which can be verified by investigation It would take volumes to give a description of our vast resources, varied in their nature and rich in undeveloped material We invite capital home seekers and men of energy to come in and locate with us Our people are hospitable and generous ever ready to give a stranger the right hand of fellowship and aid him in his investigations

PORTLAND TUESDAY, JUNE 4.

BRITAIN'S PROTECTIVE POLICY

Though Great Britain is nominally a free trade country she nevertheless applies the strongest possible methods of protection to her ex ernal commerce and in so doing pro motes the prosperity of British enterprise in the interhal industries—in particular in the production of iron and steel and in the sup port of ship-building The manner in which she applies protect on to her externa com merce and thus promotes and sustains her internal industries is explained by the American Fe no t from which we quote

Between 1840 and 1850 England finding that we were seriously contesting her claim to supremacy of the seas and were likely to control the great arteries of trade decided to make a stren ous effort to rega n her waning prosperity She sub sidized the Peninsular and Orl ntal to the East Indies the Royal Mail to the West Indies and South America the Pacific Mail on the west coast of South America and the Cunard line to Boston and New York When the oll us line was broken down British lines between this country and the re were in receipt of a yearly subsidy of £320 000 and the Royal Mail held a contract for £770 000 a year certain with an op portunity for extras. These were mail subsidies and are not thought to include admiralty allowances like that paid to the City of New York for example The English steamer lines were built not only by the aid of large subsidies but by long-time contracts, most of the contracts extended for ten years, with one year's notice.

Th s was protection in the highest degree, and the policy is still continued wherever it is regarded as necessary to build up new lines or support old lines of trade. A fresh illustration is presented in the subsidies granted to trans Pacific steamers to run in connection with the Canadian Pacific rail road

Still another feature of England's policy is to be noted Recogn zing the fact that capital embarking in great industrial and commercial schemes desires assurance that protection will not be withdrawn until busi ness is well established the British govern ment makes contracts for a term of years and thereby confidence is given to those engaging in great undertakings A similar policy in the matter of constructing war ships has been adopted for the purpose of giving confidence to the great iron and steel industries of the United Kingdom The government announces its purpose of constructing sev enty large battle ships within the next ten years and this assures to the iron industry in its various branches $1 000 000 a year dur ing this whole period

The notion that Great Britain does not pursue a policy of protection is a very erron eous one She is indeed chief of protective nations and her method is carefully formed upon experience with a view to attainment of best results She hesitates not to pay out millions for extension of her commerce, and in the building of her navy she adopts a policy that will secure to her home indus tries a long period of activity and prosper ity We on the contrary pay nothing for extension or support of our commerce, and in the building of our national vessels and the construction of public works in general we pursue an irregular desultory and un certain course that assures to industry nothing of continuance or permanence But the day will come when our country will adopt the right policy on this important subject and our resou ces then will give us large advantage in competing for the com merce and t ade of the world

THE TURKISH MISSION

A letter from Constant nople to the New York Tribune contains statements that should interest Mr Hirsch and his friends We quote

Nine tenths of the Americans in Turkey are con nected with the seven American societies which carry on benevolent work in this empire. Prob ably about the same proportion of the whole amount of American capital invested in Turkey is represented by the educational publishing and other enterprises of these societies American citizens do not forfeit their right to the ordinary protection of their government by reason of be coming n missionaries. Consequently the United States min ster to Turkey always has to suffer his time to be occupied in some degree by quest ons arising out of the presence in this country of this great missionary interest which the Turkish gov ern ment l as allowed to grow up during the last sixty years and which now suspe ding that American missionaries too stimulating to intel lectual life for the best good of the masses, it wishes to l mit or exclude

It is stated further that at this particular juncture the policy of the Turkish govern ment is in transition from careless toleration to watchful restriction of missionary operations' This imposes on the American min ister a vast amount of labor Indeed we are told th t

To be minister of the United States to Turkey implies a great expenditure of energy with start ling paucity of large and tangible result from any effort It is the work of Sisyphus and success in nine tenths of the cases h tified only br ngs upo the n n ster the g bc that he spe ds his time n carry f r th work f those l ssion aries

A good deal of the trouble arises from the sense sh pot the press in Turkey The mis sion boss agents n very often subjected to arrest and their publications to seizure and this action gives rise to untold com plaints to the American minister The suspicion also with wh ch the Turk h authorities regard the schools of the missionaries is a source of constant trouble It seems probable that Mr Hirsch will need all h s tact and will be compelled moreover to lay in a very large stock of patience in anticipation of unusual drafts upon the same

A HUMANE ALTERNATIVE

The cost of maintaining and restraining wayward and destitute children and youths in some of the older states is an enormous tax upon the thrift of the masses Human ity, while it enters largely into this work, is not by any means its sole patron and instigator Community interests can be better subserved and protected by caring for chil dren and restraining youthful offenders than by maintaining paupers and punishing criminals Political economy has fully dem onstrated this hence the humane plea in re gard to the care of destitute children and youthful malefactors finds ready audience in a practical work a day public

One day last week the Governor of Penn sylvania signed appropriation bills calling for $1 000 000 from the public treasury Of this sum the Huntingdon Reformatory is to receive $177 500 the Training School for Feeble minded Children at Elwyn $297 000 the Home of Refuge Philadelphia $120 000 and various educational institut ons similar large sums

The wastage in carrying on public institu tions even under the most efficient manage ment is large The man has not yet been found, at least he has not been reported who can or will conduct public business as economically and efficiently as successful private business is as a rule conducted We need look no farther than the records of the Oregon legislature and the manner in which impositions upon the public treasury are permitted and endorsed to verify this statement. If curiosity leads to further in quiry in this direction however the records of almost any public institution, from those of the Chicago insane asylum and the Sol diers Orphans schools of Pennsylvania down to those of the Oregon State Agricul tural Society or college will furnish ample additional proof, This fact is indeed so well established that all due allowance is made for it in naming the sums necessary to carry on any public institution Even in paying this bonus, thrift accounts itself fortunate in disposing of the forces that menace the pub lic safety through the simple, deliberate process of turning such as may be made available for the future into useful channels caring for the hopeless imbecile and re straining the pronounced criminal of his liberty This it must do or be constantly threatened and pillaged by the multitude of misdirected forces that attend the progress spring from the vices, and war upon the en ergies of civilization

STATISTICS OF DEAF MUTES

The e was a recent conference in Wash ington between Robert Porter, superintend ent of the census Dr Billings in charge of the mortality and vital statistics of the same and Dr Gallaudet president of the National Deaf and Dumb college with regard to the cla sification of deaf mutes in the new cen sus Th conference was brought about by an earnest protest from representatives of the voiceless element against publishing sta tistics industrial and otherwise, relating to deaf mutes in the special volume treating of the insane pauper and criminal classes Such classification is it is claimed wholly unnecessary and unjust and wounds deeply the feelings of the intel igent though specif ically unfortunate class known as deaf mutes Patient and respectful hearing was given to this appeal and the new superin tendent of the census coincided with the views expressed and has announced that facts relative to deaf mutes will be printed in the volume devoted to social statistics, and that prison and pauper statistics will appear in a separate volume

This decision not only accords with justice, but is in sympathy with a decent self respect which is as much the heritage of the unfor tunate as of those to whom nature has been kind in the distribution of her gifts The pauper and the criminal have at least largely made the outward conditions that surround them and the attainder that attaches to such conditions is inseparable from the lot that they themselves have ordained, if they have not deliberately chosen it The protest of any intelligent self respecting class against being catalogued with them is entitled to re spectful hearing

In connection with the matter of statistics in the new census relative to the deaf mute class it is desirable to have as much light as possible thrown upon the mooted question of whether or not the increase in the num ber of persons afflicted with the loss of hearing and its attendant condition of lack of speech is due to the intermarriage of per sons thus afflicted The assertion has been made by a specialist that such intermarriage would if continued result in due course of time in a deaf species of the human race in the United States while others have boldly di puted the assertion and declared the premises untenable It is hoped that this object will be kept in mind in compiling the statistics relative to this class of unfortu nates They are generally conceded to be the subjects of a misfortune over which neither they nor their parents have or have had control Upon this basis they become not only objects of the compassion of those more fortunately endowed but the recipient of their most generous charity If however hard incontrovertible fact proves that while going through the world themselves, 'with wisdom at the entrance quite shut out' de pendent for a large measure of their useful ness upon the bounty of others they yet violate plain laws of heredity and humanity by such marriages as will perpetuate their misfortunes in their posterity, then will cer tainly suspect themselves as intelligent hu man beings to the gravest censure More than this the commonwealth that suffers through their folly will display a wise guid ance in the enactment of laws forbidding marriages that unduly tax its resources by in creasing the great army of defective children for whom special educational facilities must be provided at public expense

CORDAGE FIBER

Sisal hemp is one of the fibers that have recently come into extraordinary demand through increased consumption of binding and other twines It is grown chiefly in Yu catan The plant will begin to yield within three or four years from planting and will furnish 2700 pounds of fiber to the acre each year During the year 1888 the average price of the fiber in Yucatan was 9 cents a pound giving $243 an acre per annum Thus extraordinary profit will, of course cause every possible effort to be made to extend the area of production

The consul of the United States at the Bahamas writes that there is a large area of land on those islands that may be devoted to the cultivation of this valuable fiber, which is a native product there and heretofore has not been much cultivated because there has been no very great demand But he re ports that persons who have made money in growing this species of hemp in Yucatan are engaging in the business in the Baha mas They have leased land for a long term of years, are rapidly planting it in sisal and soon will produce enough to make a consid erable supply in the markets of the United States

Though this fiber will grow only in tropi cal countries—a fact which makes the area of production a somewhat limited one—nev ertheless it is not to be doubted that the great and increasing demand for it with the large profits derived from its cultivation will within a few years call many new places to be sought out where it may be success fully grown

ALTERABLE THINGS

The Presbyterian one of the leading organs of the denomination whose name it bears says

The church is getting so old that she is sterile and sons are not being born into the ministry in proportion to membership as in the past. The old mothers in former generations thought that the greatest thing this side of the kingdom of heaven for a woman to do was to raise a minister of Jesus Christ and to live to hear him preach Many of such have departed from the world saying 'Let thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation' As this sterility becomes chronic, the typal face Presbyterian assembly changes.

It would be well if the church would ac cept this as a sign that it must not hold its ministers to the obligation to preach doc trines that spiritual conscion ness as well as intellect has outgrown The Churchman organ of the Protestant Episcopal church in America puts in these judicious remarks

It is undoubtedly much desired by many earnest and devout Presbyterians that there should be some modification of their doctrinal formularies The Westminster confession is really not, in the true sense of the word a 'confession of faith' but a philosophy of the faith as it was conceived and expressed in the seventeenth century Since it was composed the standpoint of philosophy has been vastly changed so vastly indeed that perhaps not one of the articles of that confession outs de of the articles of the Nicene creed would or could now be expressed in the same way by any assembly of living divines It is the function of true prophecy to translate God s truth into the language of successive generations and while the facts of the faith must of necessity remain unalterable explanations and expositions, and philosophies of the faith are in their nature al er able and ought to be altered when they promote unbelief and misunderstanding rather than faith and intelligence It is a great misfortune when the formularies of a church cease to express the actual beliefs of its members. For a time men are content to minimize and explain the passages which they do not believe but after awhile the hab t of explaining beg ns to apply to the formu laries in general the most solemn declarations begin to be received in a nom nal sense and at last a certain unreality attaches to all state ments of faith

We hope to hear of a revision of the Presbyter ian formularies for another reason also The dis putes and divisions of Christians at least of Protestant Christians have been mostly con cerning theories and not concerning the eternal facts of the Christian faith. Looking forward, as we must ever look to the visible unity of all who 'profess and call themselves Christians,' we must need hope for the removal of every stone of stum bling and every barrier of division The greater part of the Westminster confession is much like the thirty nine articles of the church of England Both a valuable historical document both in their time have been useful No ther of them is necessary to a full faith in the Christ an relation ship then I them ought for a day to be per mitted to keep Christ an men apart

Seaside cottages are likely to be occupied early this season The rains that prevailed during the month of June last year gave people an excellent chance to stay at home save their money and grumble because it rained It now looks like regulation June weath er will give them a chance to flit away to seaside and mountain resorts early spend their money and grumble because it does not rain A number of cottages are being built at the seaside railway accommodations are being improved and lines are being ex tended and there is a prospect, if transporta tion facilities between this city and Astoria are adequate of a busy season by the sound ing sea Those who make a merit of neces sity and stay at home will as usual, enjoy what rest there is to be gotten out of the summer days while the migratory, horde will rejolee in such recreation' that crowded boats and cars camp life and con tention with the festive and voracious mos quito furnishes

The most forgetful criminal in history is cited by the New York Sun. He was tried in Brooklyn recently on charge of burglary and testified that he had never been arrested before Being hard pressed, however, he admitted that he had once been convicted of murder in New Jersey serving therefor a sentence of twenty years in the peniten tiary but he asserted that when first ques tioned 'he had forgotten all about it.'' So forgetful a person may perhaps be excused for forgetting to enter his own house although it does not necessarily follow that he should remember to break into that of another The court seemed to take this view of the case and refreshed his memory of his delinquencies by a new sentence

The record of disaster from summer floods has never before equaled that of the past week in the history of the country While the crowning calamity was the result of the bursting of a reservoir extraordinary freshets have caused considerable lo s of life and great destruction of property in various val leys and cities It is as if a cloud burst had flooded an entire section of country drowned a large number of its people, de stroyed its homes and left the sites thereof a desolate waste Humanity has appeared full handed upon the scene of suffering and desolation and is doing what it can to alle viate the appalling misery and destitution that is left in the track of the subsiding waters

Two hundred boxes of bones all that remain of thousands of human bodies for merly burned in the old Broad-street cem etery New York were gathered together and reinterred at Fairmount cemetery a short time ago Even plodding mercenary New York grew sentimental in the presence of so many ghastly relics of what had been human beings, instinct with life and hope and endeavor, and had a special oration on the burial occasion and proposes to erect a $4000 monument to mark the spot where this army of 'unknown' are sepulchered

Ch cago grows by a method to which many cit zens of suburb n Portland are opposed On the first week in May that city gained 70 000 population by the annexation of three contiguous towns

In 1861 our production of pig iron was only 15 per cent of the production of Great Britain It now exceeds 46 per cent and in production of Bessemer steel we are de cidedly ahead

Cleveland's New York Speech.
Chicago Tribune.

In six months Cleveland made more removals from office than all the presidents did before Jack son No ten presidents put together can show such a record for spoils grabbing as Ming wump elected Cleveland His official ax worked so rapidly the stroke could hardly be counted The changes made for partisan reasons during the Cleveland administration are without a precedent in this or any other country Yet he says to the New York democrats he has 'no excuse or apologies to make What more could they ask? He declares as frankly as circumstances will permit, and within the lines of political cunning and evasion which he announces to be the conditions of success, that he has no regrets and would again preach civil service reform to the mugwumps and say to the spoils for the bourbons

A Small Man.
New York World, Dem

Said Mr Cleveland last night 'I have been honored by my party far beyond my deserts.' This is not the way for a man to enter himself for a second presidential term, however modest it may appear on the surface.

STORRS'S EULOGY OF WATER.

Kansas City Star

It is related of the late Lorenzo Storrs that when sitting around a wine tab with a number of his fellow-boarders he declined drinking with the rest of them, and when questioned as to his reason for so doing replied that he was a total abstainer. 'What started you in that line?' asked one of the company. 'Water,' was the laconic reply. 'Water?' 'Yes, water.' 'Explain yourself.' 'Well, you see, I was born upon the bey ge furnished by nature.' 'How?' 'Admin s ter—ab ut the only gift that has descended unsc ll ed from the hands of Eden Nature s common curse—not to mention the rottenness of fermenta tion and distillation—over guilty lives and not vices are its companions Dose it excess drunkenness disease filth result to women and children Why it was placed on the per son mortgages on it sickness and poverty follow Will it cease wines and income in all ar e and ruin men in its use? No

But it floats in the gossamer clouds far up in the quiet summer sky and hovers in dream s must over the merry dance of our park no, lakes It veils the woods and hills of earth s and seas in a pic ure where rainy lights and sh dows drift But the other hone It pales the rich tints of cloud-domes and it underlies the brass fire elec tric flash from its mysterious hiding places and storms and shocks The wide air will wield tunes of fire It is cool in the valley, where it hangs its curtains of liquid drapery over all the thirsty woods and fields and invites to a majestic first rem honor s ship beautiful bow of promise glori fied with a radiance that seems reflected on of heaven itself

It gleams in the frost crystals of the mountain tops and the dews of the valleys It silently creeps up to each leaf in the myri d forests of the world and there each fruit and flower It is here in the grass blades of the meadows and there where the corn waves its tassels and the wheat its billowy ears It gems the depths of the desert with the glad green oasis and wind in ocean s mid the whole earth and roars its hoarse eternal anthems on a hundred thousand miles of coast It claps its hands in the flashing wave-cre ts of the sea laughs in the little rip ds of the brooks and the dripping, moss-covered, old oaken well buckets in a countless host of happy homes!

Into these pieces of cracked ice, full of prismatic colors, clear as diamonds, Lelia in their fairy tinkle against the brimming glass, that sweetest music in all the world to one half fainting with thirst And so in the language of that grand old poet, Goudy, I say to you all, would you exchange that sparkling glass of water for alcohol the drink of the very devil himself

PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

Opened for Settlement.—A new portion of the Portland Terrace Company, through its agent, W. W. Spalding, has purchased what is known as "Robinson's" hill, a tract of land fronting four acres, located on the Grand Avenue and Seventh Street Terrace, and which is to be known as "The Seventh Street Terrace." It has already been platted and graded, has a fine outlook, and is now being put on the market. Lots are selling rapidly. Seventh street, which is to be entered from Hoffman avenue, is being constructed, a system of avenues, commencing with Hoffman avenue, which is to be entered from Seventh street, are being worked on there and from Grand avenue, are being worked on there also. These avenues will divide the hill portion of the property into a number of beautiful terraces, easily accessible for building purposes, over an easy grade, and commanding views of the most charming character, the most extensive of the city and the surrounding country, the Columbia river, and the surrounding country. That portion comprising the crown of the hill contains about seven acres and great attention has been given to platting it so that the lots shall be at once the most accessible and the most desirable for commanding the best views to be had in the immediate vicinity. The property is especially adapted to the purposes for which it is being platted.

Benches Needed in the Plaza.—The question is often asked why the city does not provide seats in the plaza for the accommodation of the public. The old rickety benches, which have long since proven their usefulness, are no longer fit for the purpose, and are no longer an ornament. The only seats now in the plaza are a few settees, made of dismembered fragments of settees and dismembered fragments of chairs, nailed together in the music stand—a few of which are crowded together in the music stand—a few are clustered around the trees to keep them from falling. The stand, as a general thing, is occupied by a few loungers, and women and children, tired out for a little walk and recreation, are obliged to stand up and rest on one leg at a time as they would on a stump, or else sit down on the ground. The lawn is in a deplorable condition, owing to the constant trampling by a host of stragglers and promenaders of all descriptions, and the fine green grass is rapidly being trampled into the ground. It would not cost the city much to provide good substantial iron rustic seats. They could not be damaged and they would look ornamental, and certainly would be a big accommodation to the people, and it would save the tender green grass at the same time.

A Fire Target.—At 11:30 P. M. Sunday a man entered into the saloon, kept by Alexander & Hines, on the northwest corner of Second and D streets, and asked the former if any of the rooms overhead were vacant. On receiving an affirmative answer he asked to see them. Mr. Alexander took the gas chandelier in his hand, and after taking a glance at the apartments, the screamer said that he would take the apartments, and the two went back downstairs. When Mr. Alexander stepped behind the bar he found that some one had taken the money-drawer, with its contents, amounting to between $30 and $40 from down. When Alexander left the room no one was in the saloon, but several of the loungers were sitting in front of the saloon, in darkness. Whoever the thief was must have watched his chance and stepped in the back door, grabbed the cashbox and escaped the same way, for the till was found under a carpenter shop next door to the saloon, empty. The thief did not return from the room more than three minutes.

The Town of Syracuse.—The Syracuse Improvement Company, of Polk county, has purchased 160 acres of land at the falls of the Little Luckiamute and have surveyed and plotted there a site for a town to be called Syracuse. It is claimed that in the mountains back of this town is located the finest body of fir and larch timber on the coast range. Lands have been already located there on which is 200,000,000 feet of fine yellow fir, which must of necessity pass Syracuse to reach the valley. The lowest and best pass across the mountains to Yaquina bay is by way of Syracuse, and a fine body of coal has been found at that place. This place being in the foot hills will be a fine summer resort, as fine trout fishing and hunting is found in the vicinity. A stage line has been established from Dallas to Syracuse, has been established from Dallas to Syracuse, has been established from Dallas to Syracuse, and the company intend to erect a sawmill there, and the surrounding heard of will be a boom at Syracuse.

Funeral of Rev. L. Kelsey.—The remains of Rev. L. Kelsey, which were embalmed and shipped to Columbus, Ohio, by Undertaker George E. Kelsey about two weeks ago, arrived at their destination in excellent condition. Although Rev. Kelsey lived in Portland some time, most of his relatives and friends live in Ohio, his native state, and the funeral there was largely attended. The deceased was a schoolmate of Henry Ward Beecher, and at one time, a pupil of that noted divine's father, Dr. Lyman Beecher. The greater portion of his life was spent in Columbus, where he was held in the highest esteem by the entire community, and where a host of friends now mourn his death. The funeral was held on the 20th ult. The features of the deceased looked perfectly natural, and many of his old time friends, who had not seen him for years, recognized their departed comrade at a glance.

Let It Be Stopped.—Complaint is made that for the last week or more residents in the vicinity of Morrison and Seventh streets have been much annoyed by drunken orgies in a place kept by an infamous woman in that neighborhood. Such places as the one referred to can only be tolerated when conducted so as not to be a nuisance. The shameless women and their would-be respectable associates, who make night hideous with their drunken revelings, will take fair warning that such conduct will not longer be tolerated, and if it is persisted in they will be taught that others have regard for the laws of decency, which they have long since forgotten. From all accounts it is to be presumed that the policeman on that beat must have lost his hearing.

An Ice-y Story.—About 100 feet of a trestle on the O. R. & N. Company's road, this side of Hood river, was burned Sunday afternoon, in consequence of which the train due here at 6 o'clock yesterday morning did not arrive till 1:10 P. M. The repairs were completed yesterday and the East-bound train was not delayed. A young man connected with the ice business states that he had two carloads of ice delayed for twenty-four hours on account of the burned trestle, and that the ice all melted, by which a loss of $560 was incurred, which was offered as an excuse for the rise in the price of ice. If half the amount of salt required to be put on with this story had been mixed with the icy spoken of the result might have been different.

Dearly, but Recovered.—The type-writing machine belonging to Mr. W. H. Holcomb, stenographer, which was missed when Mr. Holcomb and party arrived here from Astoria, a few days since, has been found. It was stolen by some tramp, who probably took it for a sample case, or, perhaps, imagined that Mr. Holcomb carried around the net receipts of the Union Pacific in it, as he carried it away out into the brush near S and Twenty-third streets and broke the bottom out of it in search of valuables. It was found by a man looking for his cow, and Mr. Albert Cockingham went out and secured it. There were a lot of letters in the case and some cypher books which the owner did not like to lose.

Worked Like a Charm.—The Willamette Falls Electric Company started up one of their Brush arc light dynamos last evening, and the electricity was sent from Oregon City for lighting one of their 10 o'clock circuits in this city. It worked magnificently and conclusively demonstrated the fact that our city can be lighted successfully from the falls. The result was a pleasing surprise to the company, the percentage of loss of electricity by transmission being much less than their most sanguine expectations. The work of removing the machinery from the station here to the falls will be carried on as expeditiously as possible. Another large dynamo will be moved up to-day.

The Free Bathhouse.—Plans for the proposed free bathhouse are being drawn by Architect Otto Kleeman, and by the first of next week work on the structure can be commenced. The financial committee have already $300 in cash and subscribed, leaving $650 still to be collected to make the $1500 originally estimated for its construction. No difficulty in obtaining the remainder is anticipated, for all thus far asked, have given cheerfully. The committee have not yet decided upon a location for the bathhouse, although either beneath the Morrison-street bridge or the foot of Jefferson street would make a suitable site. The institution will be centrally located if possible.

Idaho's Excursion Trip.—The steamer Idaho arrived here Sunday and will sail at noon today. She will have a full cargo among which is a large lot of transcontinental freight. On her last trip the Idaho gave an excursion rate for a ten days' trip which was taken advantage of by a large number of citizens of Seattle, Port Townsend and Port Angeles, who enjoyed a most delightful trip among the islands of the Gulf of Georgia visiting Victoria, Nanaimo, Vancouver and New Westminister. This trip is a much finer one than the Alaska trip except that there are no glaciers on the route, but as there is a splendid glacier within ten hours' ride of Portland, that don't amount to much.

More Light Wanted.—If there was an extra light put in at the west approach of the Stark street ferry it would not come amiss. There are several pieces of wood nailed on the rise of the planks to the ferry slip, and on dark nights they make excellent stumbling blocks. About 11 o'clock last night a lady going to the ferry tripped over one of these strips, nailed on to cover a hole, and sustained quite a painful injury. If there was another lamp-post or electric light globe midway between the ferry and Front street all danger would be avoided.

A New Departure.—Mr. H. M. Peirce, who has so long been connected with the firm of Staver & Wilker, has launched out upon the treacherous and troubled sea of commercial life. Mr. Peirce intends to carry constantly on hand a full line of stenographers and office supplies of all kinds, and business entrusting their orders to him can depend on their being promptly and carefully filled. Mr. Peirce for the present is located at No. 5, Washington street.

Directors Elected.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Northwest Loan and Trust Company, held on Saturday, June 1, the following were elected directors: George E. Markle, J. Thorburn Ross, Herbert Bradley, G. A. Mooney, C. F. Beebe, D. F. Sherman, Richard Williams, J. A. Sladen, Van B. DeLashmutt, E. D. Shattuck, C. A. Alsky, S. B. Wilbur, A. Thielsen.

Addition to the Courthouse.—Work on the new wing to the county courthouse is being prosecuted with a vigor that indicates its early completion. The foundation is finished, and the masonry upon barred windows (four on each side) are in place, and work on the superstructure can at once be commenced.

Deep Sea Fishing.—The schooner George H. Chance, belonging to the Yaquina Deep Sea Fishing Company, has been thoroughly repaired and is ready for sea. A full crew of experienced fishermen from Gloucester, Mass., has arrived here to man her, and Mr. S. S. West, secretary of the company, leaves with them to-day for Yaquina to take the schooner to San Francisco to have her machinery put in. When this is completed, she will come back up to the fishing banks and catch a lot of fish, which she will bring here.

County Jail Filling Up.—Jailer Dougherty's county boarding house is again filling up, and soon a shingle will have to be put out announcing the fact that "no more roomers are wanted." Every cell is occupied and the main corridor is crowded rather too much for comfort, to say nothing of the health of the occupants. The need of increased room is very apparent. Work on the new wing, however, is progressing rapidly and when completed the jail accommodations will be materially increased.

Accident to the Tauge.—About noon yesterday one of the chimneys in the old Central school building began to burn out. Hook and ladder truck No. 1 started out and as it turned up Morrison, the wheels caught in a trench which some one fixing pipes or sewers had dug across the roadway. The horses were unable to pull the truck out, and in the struggle one of them was pretty severely injured and tore loose from the truck. The fire was extinguished without any damage being done.

Saturday Evening Concerts.—The directors of the Industrial Fair Association are making arrangements to hold Saturday evening popular concerts in the music hall at the Exposition building. The painting of the lower portion of the building is about completed, which adds greatly to its appearance. The work of fitting up stalls for the fat stock show will soon be commenced and better arrangements and accommodations for the show will be furnished than ever before.

The Horses Have Arrived.—The carload of horses purchased by Mayor DeLashmutt during his recent visit East arrived here Sunday in good order, but very tired, having been unable to lie down for six days and nights. Some of the mares have been sent to the stud farm and four are put in town. One of them, Arac, is over at the race track, and has been entered for a race next Saturday, but is in no condition for making fast time.

All Persons—Wishing tickets for the excursion on Sunday, June 16th, to the laying of the cornerstone of the St. Mary's Home, near Beaverton, can have tickets at the following places: John Donnerberg's, John Barrett's, L. C. Henriesen's, F. Dreyer & Co.'s and John O'Connor's. All parties wishing tickets should procure them before next Sunday, June 9th, in order that the committee can make the necessary arrangements for cars.

Over the Rapids.—Two huge barges belonging to the Columbia River and Fuel Company came down over the cascades yesterday in charge of H. B. Borthwick, who telegraphed to D. J. Moore that they were safely moored at Bonneville last evening, where they were taking on the teams of bulls to be transported to the company's lumber camp down the river. A boat will be sent up to-day to tow the barges down.

Smelting Works Sold.—The smelting works at Brooklyn were sold yesterday at auction, and purchased by Mr. Chase, of Omaha, who has been connected with smelters there for the past seven years. A man of mines, when asked what Mr. Chase was going to do with the smelter, said: "Do with it? What do you suppose he is going to do with it? He did not buy it for a summer hotel."

Brickla ying to Commence.—Everything being now in readiness, Contractor George Langford will begin laying brick to-day on Henry Weinhard's building at the corner of Oak and Second streets. The teams of the brick trust are kept very busy now keeping all the jobs they are supplying a running.

Has Taken Soundings.—Mr. G. A. Lyle, sent out by Captain Young, United States engineer, to survey various bays and rivers along the coast, reports that he has taken soundings on Yaquina bar and finds a depth of twelve and a half feet at mean low water. He leaves for Tillamook to-day.

Getting Out Timbers.—Mr. Jack Powers has been getting out a lot of 40x12 timbers up at Sheridan for the elevator at Albina. He had four carloads shipped when the man quit work on the narrow gauge, and he has had much trouble in getting the cars here.

Sub-Committee Meeting.—The special subcommittee of the Fourth of July committee on fireworks and illumination were to have held a meeting yesterday, but postponed it and will meet at Freiman's restaurant at 2 o'clock to-day.

Communion Service.—This service was observed in the First Congregational church last Sunday morning, upon which occasion eleven persons united with the church, five on profession of faith and eleven by letter.

Scrape It Off.—Now is the time to scrape the moss off of old roofs and so prevent fires to some extent. Those who allow their roofs to remain coated with moss may well be supposed to have a similar coating on their backs.

The Ladies' Relief Society—Will meet at the Unitarian chapel, corner Seventh and Yamhill streets, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, June 4, 1889.

Continued.—The sale of 10, 11 and 12 cent ginghams for 6 cents at J. Selling & Co.'s ends to-night.

Your Gas Bills—Must be paid to-day to save a dollar.

EAST SIDE CITY FATHERS.

Twelfth Street Improvement—A New Water Commission Appointed.

To Prevent Accidents—Polling Places—The City Finances—Usual Routine Proceedings—Water Titles Captured.

There was a regular meeting of the city council last night, with President Merrick in the chair and a quorum present.

At the special meeting a week ago the recorder was instructed to ask the Oregon Real Estate Company to submit a statement concerning their proposed improvements, and the company submitted the following:

Your communication, directed by you through the recorder of your city, to the Oregon Real Estate Company, asking us to file with the council a statement concerning the nature of the improvements which we desire to make on Twelfth street, and the plans and specifications of the bridge across Sullivan's gulch was duly received, and in reply we would state that we desire at the present time to grade Twelfth street as far north as Holladay avenue, and to lay sidewalks thereon. And, further, that we will gravel Twelfth street now, or at any time when the city of East Portland shall be ready to gravel its streets around the Park block. We would prefer doing it now. At all events, it ought to be done before the fall rains set in, because there will be grade enough to the street to insure its washing if it is allowed to remain over winter without gravel.

We have not yet completed plans and specifications for the proposed bridge, but our engineer, Mr. Bellinger, is at work at the matter, and may be able to submit them this evening to you. We can state, however, that the bridge is to be an elevated roadway on the grade, designed for both foot travel and teams, and will be substantial in its character, and not inferior to any of the elevated roadways either in size or durability which are now in East Portland. We do not design to make any temporary improvements. Whatever we do in East Portland will be substantial, and done with a view to future prosperity of that part of the town in which we are so largely interested. This communication may be treated by the council as a petition of the Oregon Real Estate company, asking for the improvements as set forth above.

We have instructed our engineer to submit the plans for the bridge to your body as soon as they can be prepared, and to give you all information whatever he may concerning the matter. The matter was placed in the hands of the street committee.

ANOTHER WATER COMMISSION.

As the last water commissioners were unable to accomplish anything and was dissolved, another commission was provided for in the following resolution presented by Lefft:

Resolved, That the common council of the city of East Portland, That the rates charged the said city as well as the rates charged private consumers therein by the East Portland Water Company are exorbitant, and unreasonable in comparison with the said company's revenue, and be it further

Resolved, That John H. Hall and Thomas R. Turnbull, two free holders, residents in said city be, and they are, hereby appointed commissioners to act with commissioners appointed by the East Portland Water company under the provisions of ordinance No. 272, passed November 7, 1881, in fixing and regulating the rates to be charged by said company to the city and to private consumers during the year next ensuing, or until the same is changed by another commission duly constituted.

Adopted, and the recorder was instructed to notify the commissioners of their appointment and serve a copy of the above on the company.

MEASURE TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

An ordinance to regulate the running of street cars or engines on street crossings and the prevention of accidents. This ordinance provides for a speed no greater than five miles per hour; that a flagman be stationed at each crossing from 6 A. M. to 9 P. M., whose duty shall be to warn by passerby or team of the approaching engine or car. A fine of not less than $10, nor more than $25, for each offense is fixed as a penalty for failure to comply with the ordinance.

VOTING PLACES.

On motion, the following polling places for the coming election were designated: In the

First ward—Relief hook and ladder house.
Second ward—Pioneer engine house.
Third ward—Justice Mayo's office.
Fourth ward—Grant engine house.

OTHER NEWS ITEMS.

CAUGHT THE CRIMINAL.

It was stated about ten days ago that a young man named Patterson had his watch and chain stolen while he was sleeping in a vacant lot. Marshal Morgan has kept his eyes open ever since for the thief, and received word that a fellow named Scotty Sharp had sold the watch and chain in a saloon in Astoria. Morgan went down Saturday and returned with the man and the property Sunday afternoon. Patterson was overjoyed to get his watch and chain back. Sharp has been in the penitentiary before, and he will find familiar quarters when he gets there again.

ARM BROKEN.

Mrs. C. J. Ward, who has been in very poor health for more than a year, had the misfortune to have her right arm broken between the elbow and the shoulder yesterday morning. She was feeling moved, when in some way she fell on her arm, breaking the latter in two places. Dr. Flynn was called to attend her. The shock in her feeble condition renders the accident most unfortunate.

MOUNT TABOR EXTENSION.

Work has been commenced on the depot and car houses at the Mount Tabor terminus of the railway. There was some delay about securing lumber, but enough has been obtained to go ahead with the buildings. The unfinishing of the newly constructed portion between Sunnyside and Mount Tabor will be finished this week.

SMASHED A LAMP.

The fine large lamp that has stood in front of the Y. M. C. A. hall on L street was smashed yesterday by the carelessness of a truck driver. He was attempting to turn the truck around, and he backed it against the lamp post.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

Miss Emma Arrington has gone east of the mountains, where she will remain this summer.

Mr. W. H. Meade returned yesterday from his trip to New York. His family will remain East all summer.

PLEASANT AND PROFITABLE.

Meeting Held by the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor Sunday Evening.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor connected with the First Congregational church of this city had an unusually interesting meeting Sunday evening. The exercises took the place of the regular services at the church mentioned, and, notwithstanding the unusual warmth of the evening, were listened to by a good audience.

After singing No. 231 from Gospel Hymns No. 5, reading the Scriptures by Rev. Cephas F. Clapp, the newly appointed superintendent of Home Missions for Oregon, prayer by Pastor Clapp, in which he made touching allusion to the sufferers by the recent horror in Pennsylvania, and singing hymn No. 45 from Gospel Hymns No. 5, a helpful and interesting paper was read by Miss Marion D. Walpole, entitled "Our Object."

Then followed a voluntary by the choir; a practical and thoughtfully considered paper was read by Mr. E. C. Brundage upon the subject of the "Responsibility of Young People."

Following this, a solo was sung by Mr. E. K. Hoover in his usually excellent style, it being the beautiful hymn beginning "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

The closing address—and a most excellent one, one that every member of the society should give most earnest attention to by living its teachings in their daily lives—was given by Mr. George F. Johnson, president of the society. His subject was "Elements of Obligation in the Prayer Meeting."

Following this came an intensely impressive exhortation by Rev. T. E. Clapp, the pastor of the church, in which he urged upon the young people the measureless advantages of Christian growth, and the importance of spending every moment of time possible in that direction, to the end that their aims and objects in life might be so high, so good, so incomparable, as to place them in the position of the governing body in this city; that they might lead, control and govern in everything that pertained to the temporal, moral and spiritual well-being of our city, state and nation.

The evening's service closed with singing that inspiring hymn, No. 74, Gospel Hymns No. 5—"God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

ARTESIAN WELLS.

One in Pullman with a Sufficient Flow for 3000 People.

The following, taken from the Pullman Herald, shows that the Palouse region in the vicinity of the Coeur d'Alene mountains can depend on a water supply from not very deep artesian wells. It says:

For the past two weeks J. J. Shupe has been at work boring a well for M. C. True on his property on Main street, where the new hotel will be built. The constant thud, thud of the drill was getting monotonous as it slowly bored through the hard rock. At 9 o'clock Friday morning, the shrieks of the whistle announced that water had been struck and when the drill was withdrawn it at once came to the surface. After boring a few more feet through the sand the water overflowed freely to the great satisfaction of not only Mr. True, but the interested citizens who soon gathered in crowds to see the first artesian well in Pullman. The hole is six inches in diameter, and the flow by actual measurement is 50 gallons per minute, or 72,000 gallons in twenty-four hours. In cities where water is supplied for water closets, etc., it is estimated that the consumption to each individual is twenty-five gallons a day; this well, then, will supply the needs of a town of 3000 inhabitants. Although it has not been known that magnetic iron is one of its prominent components parts, Dr. Webb, who has tested it, says: "If a steel ring can be had in the water for six hours (or, possibly, less) it will become so magnetized that a pen can be picked up with it." A temporary ditch conveys it to the South Palouse river. When piped it can be raised to a height of, at least, thirty feet above the ground, which will enable Mr. T. to have water in every room in his hotel. The value of this well to the owner cannot be estimated, and the fact that artesian water can be had so easily makes it possible for Pullman to have, at small expense, a system of water works unequaled in the territory.

WESTON, OREGON.

Annual Exhibit of the Weston Fine Stock Association—Improvements

WESTON, Or., June 1.

Weston is astir to-day. Many strangers are on the streets. A colt show is in progress under the auspices of the Weston Fine Stock Association. Thirteen prizes will be awarded. There is a fine exhibit of Clydes, English Shires, Suffolks and roadsters. The farmers of this section are very much interested in fine stock, and will, in a few years, have the best grade of horses in Eastern Oregon.

From every part of the county come favorable reports of a promising harvest unparalleled in the history of this section.

Lloyd's brick yard is turning out thousands of brick this season. On account of the superior quality and make of the Weston brick orders are received from all directions.

Fifteen thousand feet of lumber is now at the planing mills awaiting its turn to be dressed through the planers. The farmers here in this section are making many improvements, and before all need go for lumber.

Quite a number of letters are received from capitalists in the East inquiring as to our water works bonds. They being the first bonds issued by the city it is quite probable that they will sell at a fair figure.

The prospects for the O. & W. T. road causes a buoyancy in trade and real estate, many lots are now changing hands.

Parties are here with a view of establishing a large track for training horses.

J. W. RAYBURN'S REPLY.

He Acknowledges Writing a Letter to Judge Strahan, but Not the One Published.

CORVALLIS, June 2, 1889.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In the issue of your paper of the 28th ult. appeared an article in which I am charged with doing an unbecoming thing, in this that I wrote a letter to one of the judges of the supreme court of this state relative to a cause then pending in said court, in which I had been and was then the attorney for one of the parties, for the purpose of influencing his decision in the matter.

I never wrote the letter—a copy of which is set out in your paper—but I did admit that time write a letter to Judge Strahan, in which I made mention of the case of Wood vs. Rayburn, but with no intention to improperly influence his action therein.

It is only a perverted imagination that can discover anything wrong in this letter, and the most that can be said about it is that it was a mistake. My excuse for calling his attention to this case in the letter I wrote was that an uncalled-for attack had been made on me personally, which charge was to the effect that I had induced a woman to sign a blank printed deed and afterwards had filled up the blanks, added a certificate, etc., all of which I declare to be false and without any foundation in fact whatever. The person who along with myself signed this deed as a witness has since died. Realizing that a decree against my client, no matter on what based, would be deemed by persons unfriendly to me to be a finding that I had done the thing charged, I presumed on the friendship that had and does now exist between Judge Strahan and myself to ask him to look a little closer into this case than he otherwise would do for my sake. No evil case that I have had any connection with have I been so anxious about, for the reason given, as this one. Who would not feel the same interest under like circumstances?

This case was decided adversely to my client, whereupon a petition for a rehearing was filed and allowed by the court, and it has been suggested that the publication of this letter was made by opposing counsel to deter the supreme court from receding from the opinion already announced. We will see whether it shall have the desired effect. I am amenable for all I do professionally to the supreme court, and if this court desires it, will gladly show the motives that prompted whatever I may have done in this matter.

No further notice of this letter shall be taken by me until after the determination of the court on the matters presented in the petition for a rehearing is announced.

J. W. RAYBURN.

MILITARY ORDERS.

TO EAST PORTLAND.

This magnificent property comprises 1400 lots and lies immediately between the city of East Portland (population 15,000) on the south and the city of Albina (population 4000) on the north, being really a "reserve" between two populous centers with a combined population of SIXTEEN THOUSAND. It is high, commanding a view of the entire cities of Portland, East Portland and Albina and is reached by the street cars of the Willamette Bridge Railway Co. from either Portland or East Portland. This company is now operating two lines of street cars, one running north from Holladay's addition, through the heart of East Portland, across the Morrison street bridge, and the other running due west across the new steel bridge, now in course of construction, terminating in Portland. In addition to these two lines the cars of the Vancouver motor line run directly through Holladay's addition from north to south. The property can also be easily reached from the "west side" by either the Southern Pacific railroad Company's steam ferry or by the small ferries running from Portland to Albina. Some of the finest residences on the "west side" are located in this addition. Many of the most prominent residents of Portland and East Portland are now purchasing property in Holladay's addition and many elegant and substantial residences will be constructed there during the coming year. A magnificent Boulevard, Holladay avenue, 100 feet wide, cuts through the entire property from west to east, and is now one of the most popular drives out of the city. This connects with the new steel railroad and wagon bridge (spanning the Willamette) on the west, thus giving easy access into Portland from this most desirable property. Address or call on

PACIFIC COAST PRODUCTS.

A Review of the New York Hop, Fruit and Wool Markets.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Reports from London concerning England's hop crop indicate that the attack of lice and flies on the hop plantations is very threatening. Some accounts indicate a more active trade in the London market, in which American hops share. There was, during the week, a number of transactions in rud Pacific at 15@16 cents, besides a fair trade in intermediate quality stock at corresponding prices. The market shows decidedly more tone, and prices on actual trading are good 10 cents above the best bids made early in the week.

Fruits—In Pacific dried, though business upon the surface reflects a very quiet condition, yet in jobbing qualities there is a steady movement of supplies, and a considerable quantity of stock is being distributed in this way.

Wools—A tendency to act with considerable caution may still be noted among a great many speculators and operators on both sides of the market, as there seems to be a feeling that advantages thus far this season have been mostly in favor of the grower. There is a constant complaint of no money in the goods at the present cost of wool. Stock gets into the possession of manufacturers, however, with some freedom, and it looks as though accumulations at many mills had run down to a pretty low figure before attempts to replenish were resorted to. The record of sales for the week embrace 8000 pounds spring Oregon at 19½ cents.

THE IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.

The Meeting at Philadelphia Postponed Upon the Advice of Parnell.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 3.—President John Fitzgerald, of the Irish National League of America, to-day issued a circular postponing the meeting of the league, which was to have been held July 8 at Philadelphia. This was done on the sealed advice of Mr. Parnell that such action be taken.

The postponement is until after the end of the present session of the British parliament.

Upon the receipt of Parnell's cable the members of the executive committee of the league were wired his wishes. Thirty-three delegates, including the officers, replied favorably in compliance, three opposing it, and three could not be reached.

Parnell's cablegram was in answer to one from Fitzgerald to William O'Brien urging a representation at Philadelphia from across the water, Riling particularly for the presence of O'Brien and some of the Protestant nationalists.

President Fitzgerald points out that a similar postponement of the Chicago convention took place in 1886 upon Parnell's advice, owing to the difficulty of sparing suitable representatives.

Mr. Fitzgerald adds: "That any statement that the postponement is in any manner connected with the murder of Dr. Cronin is absolutely false."

EX-MINISTER McLANE.

His Views of the Paris Exposition and French Politics.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Robert M. McLane, ex-minister to France, who arrived here Saturday, in speaking of the exposition, said that the American exhibits in machinery are not satisfactory. Edison's electrical exhibit is the greatest in the exposition, and one of the most wonderful portions of it.

Speaking of political institutions in France, McLane says although there is a strong dynastic element opposing the republican form of government, a majority of the people and of the legislature are devoted to republican institutions. Purity of the ballot and independence of electors are far greater than they are either in this country or Great Britain. The election laws afford much greater protection and much greater privacy to voters than those of the great majority of our own states. However earnest and impressionable the French voter may be, he is absolutely independent and incorruptible. No man would dare bribe him.

"As to General Boulanger, I have always maintained friendly relations with him, and I have never believed that he would abandon the republic. As to his influence, it has decreased a little. He certainly has not the same influence that he had before he left France."

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL ROADS.

An Explanation of the Southern Pacific's Withdraw I.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Colonel Crocker, second vice president of the Southern Pacific Company, was interviewed this afternoon on the subject of the company's withdrawal from the Transcontinental Association. He said: The members of the association are all well aware of the injury which the existing rates are working the Southern Pacific Company, and also the benefits which have accrued to the Canadian Pacific thereby. At its recent meeting in St. Louis, J. C. Stubbs, freight and traffic manager of the local company, laid the subject before the members and asked that immediate action be taken thereon. The association, however, quietly ignored the matter, and nothing was done. In order to force attention to it, the Southern Pacific company notified the Transcontinental Association of its withdrawal from that body." This, Crocker says, would mean its collapse.

The next session of the Transcontinental Association will be held at Tacoma, during the first week in July, and some very important changes may be looked for.

THE BRITISH SYNDICATE.

A Combination of the Brewers of Chicago and St. Louis to Combat It.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The steady progress of the mysterious British syndicate in securing control of the breweries of this country is alarming the brewers of this city, and the three largest have combined to fight the British syndicate.

The combination appears to have boundless resources. The purchases are being made at prices which the sellers admit to be fabulous. The capacity of the plants which have been already acquired by the trust is something enormous. It is the, report of the movement which is troubling the beermakers. Even those who have sold out admit that they know nothing of the plans of the foreign company. Those brewers who have declined the advances of the trust see before them no escape from a position where they will be forced to fight an overpowering combination.

The first brewers to take up the fight were those of St. Louis. They have formed a combination which embraces every brewery in that city and they propose to meet organization with organization.

THE DENVER & RIO GRANDE.

Annual Meeting of the Stockholders and Election of Directors.

DENVER, June 3.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Denver & Rio Grande railway was held in this city to-day.

Among those present were: George Coppell, chairman, Charles M. Dacosta and Adolph Engler, of New York, D. H. Moffatt, president, and E. O. Wolcott and J. W. Gilluly, of Denver.

The annual report was submitted and adopted, and a new board of directors elected as follows: D. H. Moffatt and W. S. Cheesman, of Denver, George Coppell, R. T. Wilson, Adolph Engler, Charles M. Dacosta and Joseph R. Rusk, of New York and J. Lobet Welsh and Edmund Smith, of Philadelphia. The only change in the board is the election of Messrs. Rusk and Smith in place of Messrs. Minturn and Stadiger, resigned.

The directors will meet in New York, June 5, when the election of officers will take place.

LOOKING TOWARDS ADMISSION.

A Call for the Election of Delegates to a Constitutional Convention in Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 3.—Governor Warren to-day issued a proclamation for an election on July 8th of delegates to a constitutional convention. The governor, secretary and chief justice had previously divided the territory into districts and apportioned the delegates among the same.

This action was taken in response to the request of the commissioners of nearly all of the counties in Wyoming, and is in accord with the views of prominent citizens without regard to party.

Wyoming has the population, wealth and public intelligence to entitle it to immediate admission, and its people will earnestly appeal to congress for that end.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN A MINE.

Two Men and Probably More Imprisoned, and One Man Killed.

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., June 3.—This afternoon fire was discovered in the 1000 foot level of the Idaho mine. Loleum, superintendent, tried to go down the shaft with a hose, but was soon overcome and brought to the surface unconscious. Frank Carter, jr., was killed in trying to get to the fire; his head was cut off by machinery. Coleman will probably recover.

It is known that Thomas Dunston and Samuel Ralph are down in the mine under the fire. There is no way to get to them, but they may make themselves safe lower down. If is now reported that ten or eleven more men are in the mine.

CALIFORNIA NEWS ITEMS.

San Francisco Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Mrs. Frank Tammen has arrived here with her three children, in search of her husband, who left their home at Spokane Falls six weeks ago to look for work. She has asked the police to assist her in the search.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company's steamer Queen of the Pacific will sail to-morrow morning for Port Townsend and Victoria. The City of Puebla, whose place was taken by the Queen, owing to the accident to her propeller sound, is still on the dry dock at the Union Iron Works, and could not be got in readiness for her trip. The Queen will not take freight for Alaska, as she does not make direct connections with Alaskan steamers.

The lease of the Grand opera house, signed by John W. Mackay, James L. Flood and Thomas J. Berger, administrators of the will of James C. Flood, of the first part, and John Maguire, of Butte City, Mont., party of the second part, was filed for record to-day. The terms are that Maguire shall pay $1000 a month for the theater for three years, commencing October 1, 1889.

The steamer Jessie, Captain Gage, will sail at an early hour to-morrow for Alatag bay, Alaska. She has on board an entire outfit for a new cannery to be established at Alatag by the Kodiak Packing Company. Besides these, she carries ten horses and one otter boat, a large scow and a small boat.

The steamer Columbia arrived from Portland and Astoria this evening with her usual complement of passengers and freight. She will have a nice passenger list in her during her stay here. This will not delay her, as she does not go on the dry dock, but will have the wheel put in at the wharf, a coffer dam being rigged under her stern for the purpose.

A little boy, aged about 7 years, was drowned to-day from a lighter moored at a wharf. His clothing was found this afternoon lying on the lighter. A boatman a short time previously saw three boys go down on the lighter, and the supposition is that the little fellow, after undressing, essayed to take a swim and was drowned. The other boys ran away, and consequently nothing could be learned of the name of the deceased.

They Were Married in Portland.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—There was quite an audience in Justice Riemer's courtroom to-day, when the suit of Aaron E. Elkelos against Mrs. Elizabeth Alendorf, to recover money loaned, $20, $25, the value of a music-box, and $18 50, the value of a quantity of wax flowers, was called. Elkelos told the story of his troubles in a blunt, matter-of-fact manner. He said he married Miss Lizzie Alexander at Portland, Or., nearly seven years ago, and came to this city in 1886 to work at carpet laying. His wages ran from $25 to $30 a week, which he gave to her with which to support the family. He lived happily, with his wife until she began to go astray last fall. A divorce was secured two months ago, and about that time he loaned his mother-in-law $20, and entrusted a furniture box and other articles to her care. When he demanded the return of his property, his request was refused, on the ground that he had never taken proper care of his wife. The court awarded a judgment for defendant.

Killed by a Circular Saw.

VIRGINIA, Nev., June 3.—Thomas Alehorn, head carpenter at the Belcher mine, was killed there yesterday. He was sawing 6x6 timbers with a circular saw. One of the pieces which he failed to take away from the saw, struck him in the jaw and felled him to the floor. He rose to his feet, and stepping forward three paces, without uttering a word fell dead. It was afterward ascertained that his jaw bones were fractured to splinters and his neck broken.

The deceased was 53 years of age and has resided upon the Comstock a quarter of a cent ury. His daughter lives in San Francisco.

Sarah Althea Scores a Point.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—In the superior court to-day Judge Sullivan rendered a decision on the demurrer of Fred Sharon to the application of Sarah Althea Hill-Terry for the appointment of a receiver for the Sharon estate. The judge in his decision says that the state courts have exclusive jurisdiction in divorce cases, and, therefore, that the claim of the defendant, to wit, that the case had already been called before the United States court, and, therefore, could not be heard by him, was overruled. The application for a receiver will be heard July 15.

From South America.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Advices from Panama are to May 11. The large number of troops that Brazil has placed on the frontier, avowedly for the protection of Paraguay and the prevention of war between that country and Bolivia, excite apprehension of an extensive war.

M. P. Grace has left Peru for London. The Donoughmore contract was to be taken up on the 24th of May.

Who has fine Hair, and desires to preserve its color, abundance, and lustre, should use Ayer's Hair Vigor as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean and cool, and is by far the most exquisite toilet preparation in the market.

B. M. Johnson, M. D., Thomas Hill, Mo., says: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor in my family for a number of years, and regard it as the best hair preparation I know of. It keeps the scalp clean, the hair soft and lively, and preserves the original color. My wife has used it for a long time with most satisfactory results."

Mrs. S. A. Rock, of Anderson, Texas, writes: "At the age of 34, in Monroe, La., I had a severe attack of swamp, or malarial fever. After I got well my hair commenced coming out, and so continued until it had well nigh all gone. I used several kinds of hair restorers, but they did no good. A friend gave me a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. Before finishing the first bottle my hair began to grow, and by the time I had used three bottles, I had a fine head of hair."

THE SPEED ASSOCIATION.

A Meeting Held Last Evening—The Preliminary Arrangements Ability All Perfected—To Canvass the City.

The Portland Speed association had a special meeting in the parlors of the Pantheon last evening. Present: Messrs. Rothschild, Smith, Forbes, Gunst and Ransom.

A great many horses who will attend the races think they are to take place at Riverview track (White house), but they are not. The races will take place at City View park, which is situated opposite Riverview cemetery, on the east side of the river.

W. H. Whitmore's mare Leona was omitted in the published list of entries for the 2:30 class. The mare was entered with the secretary prior to the closing of the entries, but it was omitted in the list furnished THE OREGONIAN.

The manner in which the horses will be handicapped in the seven-eighths mile handicap race, which takes place Friday, will be announced on the blackboard at the track at the close of the races Thursday. All entries for this race must be paid for with the secretary, S. A. Gunst, by Thursday night.

As these races are being gotten up largely in the interest of the public at large it was decided last night to do away with the custom of soliciting subscriptions and to canvass the city with tickets for sale. Committees were appointed who were given districts and will call on the citizens, who will be requested to purchase tickets admitting them to the races instead of subscribing toward the races. It is thought that the public will subscribe more freely in this manner than the other. As all the money that can be raised by the sale of tickets will be absorbed in the purses that are to be competed for, the association expects a liberal purchase of tickets. The quarantine is not all acted, but they expect the ticket purchased to be small. A large attendance will have a great deal to do with the success of the races.

Judges will be selected each day prior to the races from the citizens present, the same as was done at the meeting last fall. Committees were selected and distributed as follows, to sell tickets: R. C. Smith and C. M. Forbes, all that portion of the city south of Alder street.

S. A. Gunst and P. Powers, north of Alder and west of First street.

E. S. Rothchild and Wm. Frazier, east side of First street and Front street north of Alder.

Horsemen intending to participate in the races are requested to call on the secretary, get their badges of admission and leave their entry fees.

All arrangements have been carefully perfected for transportation to the races. The tickets will be good on the narrow gauge trains, with which a ferry will connect opposite Riverview cemetery, also on a commodious steamer which will leave a dock south of Morrison street bridge to be selected later on, at the hours of 11 and 12 A. M. and 1 and 2 P. M. each day of the races. Provisions have also been made for the boat to land at a convenient place for the public to go to and from the wheel. All delays in transportation and starting the races have been guarded against, thereby doing away with all these disagreeable features of most races, etc., given out of the city.

MINSTRELSY AT THE NEW PARK.

A Rare Treat Promised in Johnson & Slavin's Splendid Minstrel Organization—New Songs—New Jokes.

It is usually only necessary to announce the fact that a minstrel company is to appear to insure full houses. The people always want to be amused, and there seems to be no more popular means of accomplishing that end than by giving them the variety of performances usually afforded by negro minstrels.

Among the many organizations now touring the country, none have received more favorable mention than Johnson & Slavin's minstrels, who make their initial bow to the Portland public tonight. The Philadelphia Inquirer says of them in the following terms:

"Johnson & Slavin's minstrels may well feel proud of the magnificent audience which applauded them last night. However they gave an entertainment that fully merited the continuous applause, for it illustrated all that is best in modern minstrelsy, and was unquestionably the finest of its kind ever seen in this city. All that is new and good in their art has been gracefully utilized, and with such refined taste, and so artistically have all their features been mixed that really it seems perfection has been reached at last. We scarcely consider it necessary to individualize where all was so clearly superior, but they made an impression in that city that will not soon be forgotten."

Seats are now on sale, for any of the six nights, at Hoyt Bro.'s music store and at Gunst & Co.'s.

TO BE A TEST CASE.

Suit Commenced by Pilot T. F. Neil Against the Ship Borrowdale for $176.

T. F. Neil yesterday began suit in the United States circuit court against the British ship Borrowdale to recover $176 for piloting said ship in across the bar to Astoria. This is a test case to try the validity of the pilot bill passed at the last session of the legislature.

Pilot Neil in his complaint states that he, being off the bar on the pilot schooner Governor Moody and seeing the Borrowdale flying a signal for a pilot, went on board, took charge of the helm and piloted her safely to Astoria; that for these services he is entitled by law (the old law) to the sum of $176, and as neither the master nor the owners of the Borrowdale have paid him this sum, he brings suit to libel the ship and have her held to pay his modest claim.

Under the provisions of the act passed last winter the O. R. & N. Co. agree to furnish a pilot and to tow a ship like the Borrowdale in over the bar and up to Portland, and to tow her back out to sea, furnishing a pilot, all for the sum of $569.

As Pilot Neil claims $176 for his services in merely piloting the ship in over the bar to Astoria it will readily be seen what a burden and extortion the new law is intended to relieve the commerce of the Columbia of. The pilots fought to prevent the passage of the new law, and are now making a desperate effort to set it aside and to perpetuate the old oppression on the commerce of the river.

OH! YES, HE STOLE A HAM.

But He Got Knocked Down and Pounded Severely for It.

"Hard was he up,
And in the harshness of his system
He stole a ham—"

This was evidently what was the matter with a person who, while sauntering up Yamhill street, Saturday evening, saw a fine ham hanging in front of a grocery store, which he proceeded to carry off—that is, the ham, and not the grocery store.

He had, however, reckoned without his host, or his grocery man, rather, and the result of this oversight was a surprise to him. The grocery man had had an eye on him, and started out in pursuit, and soon overtaking him, wrested the ham from him, and, swinging it around, knocked him down with it. Then standing over the prostrate thief, the grocery man raised the ham high above his head and dropped it like a pile-driver on the fallen one, whose hollow caverns resounded with the blow.

This was repeated several times, each drop of the ham causing a grunt of pain and rage. The grocery man would probably have kept thumping the fellow in the ribs till this time, if he had not scrambled to his feet, and being no longer encumbered with the ham, managed to escape.

PROPOSED CHURCH EDIFICE.

Steps To Be Taken Looking to the Erection of a New First Congregational Building.

The First Congregational church of this city for several months past has felt greatly the necessity for a new church building, in order to accommodate with comfortable sittings the growing number who desire to worship there. The progress of this church since Rev. T. R. Clapp became its pastor, three years ago last April, has been greater for the same length of time than ever before in its history.

With the end of erecting a larger house of worship, a meeting of the church and society has been called for next Thursday evening to consider all matters pertaining thereto, and it is expected that there will be full attendance of all interested in this much needed enterprise. The matter of raising the necessary funds has been going on for some months, and now the time is ripe for a forward movement that will insure the early completion of a commodious structure for public worship.

Eligible lots, it is understood, have been secured, and it is probable that at least $70,000 will be invested in the new undertaking.

EIGHT MILLION GALLONS DAILY.

That Is the Amount of Water Required to Supply the City Every Twenty-Four Hours.

Superintendent Smith, of the City Water Works, says that the consumption of water since the hot weather set in, has been the enormous amount of eight million gallons per day. Both pumps at Palatine hill are kept going, and still it is not possible to keep water in the reservoirs.

He attributes a waste of 2,000,000 gallons per day to irrigating and sprinkling sidewalks, many people using their hose beyond the time allowed, and some allowing it to run all night. If this needless waste is not stopped the water will be shut off at night, which will be dangerous to the city at large, and a great inconvenience to many, who will have to suffer for the faults of others.

The committee at their meeting to-day will probably decide as to whether another pump and main will be put in, but if they decide to put them in, it will be at least nine months before they will be ready for service.

DAY'S JUDICIAL RECORDS.

What Was Done Yesterday in the Various City Courts.

Trouble Among Laundry Men—Before Judge Stearns—Heavy Bonds Required—Drunks. Vags and Disorderlies—Notes—Etc.

On petition of C. N. Scott, receiver of the Oregonian Railway Company, Judge Deady yesterday made an order allowing him to borrow $6000 for paying the employes of the road, certificates to be issued for the money. It is understood that hereafter money will be forthcoming to pay the employes regularly.

JUDGE TANNER'S LEVEE.

Nelson Rondon and Eugene Sullivan, simple drunks, fined $3 each; Joan Cavanaugh, Joe Brown, drunk, $5 each; Joe Simpson and John Jones, same, $10 each; Joe Burke, charged with defacing a building by breaking a window, fined $10; Chin Hoy, the Chinaman who stole a little girl's doll last Saturday, was fined $25; Annie Lafferty, charged with assault and battery on Annie Saunders, paid a fine of $10; A. T. Abhanna pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery on A. J. Martin and was fined $5.

S. Arpin, the expressman charged with larceny by bailee of $3 40 from a Chinaman, was discharged. His innocence was not so clearly established, but the court gave him the benefit of the doubt.

R. Holzhauser pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and was given a $10 fine, which he promptly paid.

The following cases were continued until this afternoon: Thomas English, assault with a deadly weapon upon Ah Chung; Charles Hallett, assault with intent to rob Dan Stewart; James Turk, threatening to kill "Busko" Kelly; Mrs. Slagger, assault and battery on Mrs. Lizzie Lunz; Louis Wilson, assault and battery on Mrs. S. Mitsch.

LAUNDRY MEN IN COURT.

The Troy laundry is again about to pass into the hands of a receiver, owing to trouble between the partners, who have been conducting the business since February 8. John Tait and Arthur C. Tuttle, two members of the firm, yesterday commenced suit in Judge Stearns's court against A. J. Martin, the remaining partner, to compel him to relinquish the firm's books, now in his possession.

The plaintiffs allege that Martin expelled them from the laundry in May, and has since refused to give them any share of the profits and denies them admission to the building. They further allege that he has been an habitual drunkard for some time, and is no longer able to conduct the business or any part of it. The firm has outstanding bills amounting to $900, while the entire partnership estate is valued at $2300.

Plaintiffs ask that after a dissolution of the partnership, the property be sold, creditors be paid and the remainder be divided equally between them.

BEFORE JUDGE STEARNS.

The following cases were disposed of in department No. 2 of the state circuit court yesterday:

E. M. Schneider, indicted for attempting a felonious assault upon two little girls, was brought into court yesterday morning and arraigned on the indictment. The prisoner entered a plea of not guilty, and his trial was set for June 18.

Counsel in the case of Frank Jarvis, who is awaiting trial on a charge of incest, yesterday morning made a motion to set aside the indictment. The court denied the motion and Jarvis was cited to appear in court this morning to plead.

Louisa Otwell was granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Thomas Otwell, who deserted her about three years ago.

James Brannon entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of larceny, and a date for his trial will be set in court this morning.

Several motions of attorneys in less important cases were variously disposed of.

JOE HOLLADAY'S SUCCESSOR.

Judge Catlin yesterday morning made an order appointing Mr. James Steel administrator of the estate of Ben Holladay, deceased, vice Joe Holladay, who was removed May 31. The estate is valued at $300,000, and Mr. Steel, upon qualifying, will be required to file an undertaking in the sum of $600,000.

When it is remembered that in the case of Mr. P. C. Schuyler, who was temporary administrator when the estate was about twice as large as it is now, the bonds required was only $225,000, the amount imposed upon Mr. Steel seems rather large and out of proportion.

Mrs. Harriet Campbell, as guardian of the two Holladay children, to whom all the property falls, was required to give only $4000.

JAMES TURK FINED $50.

James Turk was fined $50 by Justice Phelan yesterday for assaulting "Busko" Kelly, the boarding house runner.

During the examination the following facts were developed: Saturday afternoon James Turk and his son Frank were walking down First street and met Kelly at the corner of B. Frank insulted Kelly, and after an abundant flow of "cuss" words, the men came together with a clash. Old Jim stood by and urged his boy on, but took no active part in the assault. A warrant was issued for the arrest of young Turk, but he had left town for more congenial quarters, so the old man was taken as a substitute. Notice of an appeal was given Justice Phelan at once by Turk's counsel.

MINOR JUSTICE COURT CASES.

Fred Boedel was arrested by Constable Simmons yesterday on complaint of Rudolph Beutsch, proprietor of a bakery, corner Second and Main streets, who charges him with assault and battery. The trouble took place during the bakery fiend's, the complainant's, bakery being one of the ones placed under the ban.

Justice Phelan yesterday fined Robert Grand $5 upon his pleading guilty to cruelly beating a horse, the property of J. A. Anderson.

SANITARY GETS $200.

The sealed verdict in the case of Benjamin Janowsky against J. M. Holston for false imprisonment and defamation of character, was opened in Judge Shattuck's court yesterday morning. The verdict awarded the plaintiff the sum of $200, which is considerable less than the $5000 sued for.

PROSPECTIVE VOTERS.

Jones Sholan, a subject of the king of Sweden and Norway, and Soren Sorenson, a subject of the king of Denmark, yesterday filed declarat ons of intention of becoming citizens of the United States, with the clerk of the county court.

THESE WILL WED.

Marriage licenses were yesterday granted by the clerk of the county court to Martin Shea and Ida Schaller, and W. H. Brits and Elizabeth A. Smith.

THE "SLICKERS" DISTRICT.

Major Handbury Has Returned From a Meeting of the Debris Commission.

Major T. H. Handbury, United States engineer, has returned from California, where he has been attending a meeting of the mining debris commission. The commission visited the mining regions in the northern portion of the state on the Klamath, Scott and Trinity rivers, and then went over to Nevada and Sierra counties and examined some of the large hydraulic mines which have been enjoined and are lying idle.

He was much interested in noticing the wonderful changes in the water systems of that section, the old river bed from which gold was being mined being 2650 feet above the present river and running at right angles with it.

There is a great deal of gold yet to be got out, and in getting it out a great deal of dirt must be washed down, and the question for the commission to solve is what to do with this "slickens."

He saw in one place a deposit of pay dirt ten miles long, 1000 feet wide and 200 feet deep awaiting removal as soon as some plan is arrived at by which hydraulic mining can be resumed. He also saw where the sluices from mines had been deposited, covering farms and presenting a scene of desolation. In some places young fir plantations were growing on the sluices, but it takes a long time before this stuff can be fit for cultivation.

PERSONAL.

Captain B. B. Tuttle and wife returned yesterday from a visit to the Bay City.

Mr. O. F. Paxton is confined to his residence with typhoid fever. He expects to be around by the end of the week.

A GRAND SUCCESS.

The Grant's Pass Special Arrives With 208 Delighted Excursionists.

The Grant's Pass special train, carrying 205 people, arrived at the East Portland depot sunday evening at precisely 7 o'clock, the advertised time. The run was made from Grant's Pass—a distance of 330 miles—in precisely twelve hours, including two stops of one hour each at Roseburg and Oakland for dinner. The last 189 miles, from Oakland to Portland, was made at the rate of thirty-five miles per hour, including nine stops. Engineer Burns, who had charge of the Pacific, was congratulated on all sides for the remarkable run made. The trip, covering three days, was made without a single accident or mishap of any kind, and was thoroughly enjoyed, as will be seen from the following testimonial:

WHEREAS, On the excursion from which we are just returning every effort has been made for our happiness and comfort in every way by the management, J. T. Flynn & Co., by Conductor S. Conser and by the citizens of Grant's Pass, therefore be it

Resolved by us, the excursionists, through the undersigned committee, that we hereby extend our most heartfelt thanks to Mr. Conser for his untiring efforts for our comfort on the train, both going and coming, and for his unrelaxing good nature, which sustained him in his numerous duties on the trip; to Mr. Flynn, for his courteous attention to every wish and suggestion of his guests; and finally to the citizens of Grant's Pass and vicinity who, during all our stay with them, never failed to put themselves out that we might enjoy comfort and pleasure, and who so generously gave to us the use of their carriages that we might see the country surrounding their growing city to the best advantage.

THE OLD RATES ARE STILL PAID.

The Bridge and Ferry Companies Have Not Yet Complied With the New Schedule of Tolls.

The new schedule of bridge and ferry toll rates, as prepared by the county commissioners was to have gone into effect June 1, but as yet no change from the old rates has been made. A reporter last night inquired of the toll collector on the Morrison-street bridge and the night captain on the Stark-street ferry as to whether any instructions had been received to comply with the terms of the new toll schedule and in both instances a negative reply was given. The old rates will are in force and the companies, evidently, show no disposition to make a change.

Judge Catlin yesterday stated that if the old rates were still adhered to, suit could be brought for damages. It remains with the public to say whether they will pay the old rates as a matter of courtesy to the bridge and ferry companies or whether they will insist upon the terms as provided by the county commissioners.

RIVER TOLLS.

PORTLAND, June 3.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A few days ago THE OREGONIAN contained what purported to be an official schedule of bridge and ferry rates recently established by the county court, and which, it was said, would be in effect June 1. There is evidently a mistake out somewhere, as the collector on Morrison street bridge this morning informed the undersigned that the Bridge company had received no official notice of any change in rates taking effect June 1, and declined to sell more than eight footman's tickets for twenty-five cents (the old rate), whereas the schedule published in THE OREGONIAN set forth that ten such tickets should be sold for twenty-five cents. Do you suppose—that anything could attain such popularity as PEARLINE enjoys, and hold it, without wonderful merit—that people would use it year after year were it harmful to fabric or hands—that the hundreds of imitations are attracted by anything but its wonderful success?

You'll do well to use Pearline—see that your servants use it, and insist that they do not use the imitations which they are often induced to try because of the worthless prize accompanying it, or by the glib and false argument of some peddler. PEARLINE is never peddled. JAMES PYLE, New York.
